GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Darjeeling, the 27th June 1894.

Notification No. 48A.—Marine.—With the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the following rules for quarantining against plague have been made by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in exercise of the power conferred by section 1, Act I of 1870.*

These rules have effect as a temporary measure from the 3rd of July 1894 in the Port of Calcutta, and from the 5th of July in the Port of Chittagong:—

I. The Commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft arriving from Hong-Kong or a Chinese port, shall, on arrival at the Sandheads if bound for Calcutta, and at Norman's Point if bound for Chittagong, hoist a yellow flag, and indicate by signal the port from which she has come, and shall keep such flag and signal flying until permitted to take it down as hereinafter provided. The pilot on boarding a vessel from Hong-Kong or a Chinese port shall direct the flag prescribed above to be hoisted if it has not already been done.

II. Such Commander shall not, without first having obtained permission as hereinafter provided, allow any communication with the shore or any other vessel or boat excepting only with the boat supplying the pilots* from the pilot brig, and in that case communication shall be limited to receiving on board the pilot, his leadaman, servant and baggage.

* N. B.—Pilotage is compulsory for all vessels over 100 tons in the Port of Calcutta.

III. The pilot shall not take such vessel higher up the river than Mutwabrooj if bound for Calcutta, and Guptakhali if bound for Chittagong, but shall anchor it there until the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta or of Chittagong, as the case may be, has visited it and ascertained by enquiry from the Commander whether any person on board is suffering or has during the voyage suffered from plague. If the Health Officer is satisfied by such enquiry that no person on board is suffering or has suffered from plague, and if the ship carries a qualified medical officer, or if the vessel has undergone quarantine for not less than seven days at Singapore, the Health Officer shall, by writing under his hand, to be delivered to the Commander, permit such vessel to haul down the yellow flag and proceed upwards in the port and to hold free communication with the shore and with vessels and boats in port.

If the ship does not carry a qualified medical officer, or if she has not undergone seven days quarantine at Singapore, he shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed by the Port Officer, and there to remain for a period of eight days from the date of arrival in harbour. The Health Officer shall also direct the Commander to prohibit, during the period for which the vessel remains at the quarantine anchorage as aforesaid, all communication, except such as is hereinafter provided for, between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels and boats in the harbour.

IV. If the Health Officer, as the result of the enquiry made under paragraph 3 above, shall have reason to believe, at the time when the vessel arrives in the harbour, that any person on board is suffering, or during the voyage has suffered, from plague, he shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage as aforesaid, and there to remain for a period of fifteen days from the day of arrival in the harbour; and shall further direct that during such fifteen days intercourse between the said vessel and the shore or other vessels and boats in the harbour shall be prohibited as provided in Rule III.

V. If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid, any case or cases of plague should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rules III and IV.

VI. When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Port Officer as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days, or if the vessel has been placed in quarantine for fifteen days, for a period of fifteen days. If a case of plague occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII. Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII. It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine, to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.

No. 3257.

Simla, the 30th June, 1894.

I.

[In the following Notification "Notes" means "Promissory Notes of the Government of India," and includes "Stock-Certificates" issued in lieu thereof:]

1. Notice is hereby given that all the Notes of the Four per cent. Loan of 1842-43 will be discharged at the General Treasury of Fort William (Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta) on November 1st, 1894, on which date the interest on such Notes will cease.
2. Proprietors of Notes hereby advertised for discharge have the option, which must be exercised before noon of Saturday, July 28th, 1894, of tendering their Notes for reduction of interest from 4 per cent to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., such reduction to have effect from August 1st, 1895.
3. The reduced loan thus constituted will be known as the $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Loan of 1842-43, and no part of it will be paid off or discharged before August 1st 1904, nor until the expiration of three months after notice of payment to be given by the Governor General of India in Council in the Government Gazette.
4. Notes may be tendered for reduction of interest at the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, or at any other Bank (including the Bank of England) or Treasury, to which they are for the time being enfaced for payment of interest. Notes so tendered must bear the following endorsement duly signed:

"This Note (or Stock-Certificate) is tendered for reduction of interest in terms of Notification of June 30th, 1894."

5. On Notes so tendered (in addition to any interest already due and payable on them) interest will, as soon as possible after the Notes are tendered, be paid in anticipation, namely:

- (1) Two Rupees per Rs. 100 falling due on August 1st, 1894;
- (2) Eight annas per Rs. 100, being the difference of interest accruing up to July 31st, 1895.

6. Every Note so tendered will be enfaced in the following terms before it is returned to the proprietor:

"The interest payable on this Note is reduced to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., and the principal amount will not be discharged before August 1st, 1904."

7. All future payments of interest on any Note so enfaced will be made on the usual half-yearly dates as if the Note bore interest at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. instead of 4 per cent.

8. When a Note so enfaced comes in ordinary course under renewal, it will be renewed in its original form, save that—

- (1) For "four per cent." will be substituted "three-and-a-half per cent."
- (2) A clause will be added at the end—"The Governor General in Council hereby engages that this Note shall not be discharged before August 1st, 1904."

9. If by reason of the duly certified absence from India of the proprietor or of one of the proprietors of a Note included in the terms of this notification a legal signature to the endorsement mentioned in clause 4 cannot be given by noon of Saturday, July 28th, 1894, then in such case the tender will be accepted if the Note be left in the custody of the Public Debt Office, Bank, or Treasury (as the case may be), and the tender be legally signed before noon of Saturday, August 18th, 1894.

10. In addition to the above payment of interest, a further payment of two annas per Rs. 100 will be made as brokerage or commission to the receipt of the person, whether proprietor or agent, who tenders the Note for reduction of interest.

11. The Secretary of State will issue a notification in London stating the terms on which Notes hereby advertised for discharge will be received for reduction of interest by the Bank of England.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.
A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.
 By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of Q; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts, Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

SIR JOHN LAMBERT, K.C.I.E., was in charge of the Police of the Town of Calcutta and its Suburbs throughout the year except for the period from the 16th July to the 25th October, when Mr. A. H. Giles officiated for him. Mr. A. B. Barnard continued to hold the office of Deputy Commissioner until the 22nd March 1893, from which date he was granted furlough for one year. During his absence Mr. H. E. C. Paget acted for him as Deputy Commissioner.

2. The total number of offences, cognizable and non-cognizable, reported in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta during 1893 and the two preceding years, is shown in the following table:—

	1891.	1892.	1893.
Town	48,569	47,765	36,552
Suburbs	11,871	11,472	11,242
Total	60,440	59,237	47,794

The decrease of 11,213 offences reported in the Town is the most noteworthy feature in the year's report. In the Suburbs the decrease was only 230—a difference which does not require explanation. The number of cognizable offences under the Penal Code reported in the Town and Suburbs together decreased by 935, and of non-cognizable offences under the same Code by 964. There was a decrease of 6,648 in miscellaneous cognizable offences, chiefly under the Hackney Carriage Act and in street offences under the Police Act, and of 2,896 in miscellaneous non-cognizable offences, which occurred wholly in municipal prosecutions. The reasons for the decrease under the various heads of crime will be more fully discussed hereafter in dealing with the cognizable and non-cognizable offences reported as true in the Town and Suburbs respectively.

3. The following table shows separately the number of cognizable and non-cognizable cases tried during the past two years in the Town and Suburbs—

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	Cognizable cases.		Non-cognizable cases.		Decrease.
	1892.	1893.	1892.	1893.	Cognizable.	Non-cognizable.
Northern Division Court (Presidency Magistrate)	14,352	9,974	535	369	4,378	166
Southern Division Court (Chief Presidency Magistrate)	11,276	9,070	449	68	2,206	381
Bench Court (Honorary Magistrates)	1,724	800	8,243	6,660	924	1,583
Total for town	27,352	19,844	9,227	7,097	7,508	2,130
Suburbs	6,800	6,677	2,505	1,820	213	766

The total number of cases tried in the Town and Suburbs during the year was 35,447, of which 29,112 ended in conviction. The number of cognizable cases tried in the Town was 19,844, and of these 17,899 ended in conviction in the Magistrate's Court, and 37 in the High Court. In the Suburbs, out of 6,677 cognizable cases tried, 6,299 resulted in conviction before Magistrates and 14 before the Court of Sessions. These results are very satisfactory, and reflect credit on the work of the Police during the year. The total number of arrests under all heads in the Town and Suburbs fell from 46,731 to 35,981, and the ratio per cent. of convictions to arrests from 93.92 to 91.26. The decrease in arrests occurred wholly under minor heads, chief among which are public and local nuisances under section 283, Indian Penal Code, miscellaneous offences under the Hackney Carriage Act and the Ports Acts, and street offences.

4. False cases.—Seventy-one false cases were brought in the Town and 28 in the Suburbs, against 62 and 27, the corresponding figures for 1892. Out of 19 prosecutions instituted in the Town under the Penal Code, 6 ended in conviction; in 6 the accused were discharged, and 6 were struck off owing to the failure of the parties to appear. In the Suburbs prosecutions under the Penal Code were instituted in 10 cases, in 5 of which the accused were fined and in 5 discharged. Rupees 332 were awarded as compensation, under section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, in 35 cases in the Town, and Rs. 74 in 8 cases in the Suburbs. The average compensation awarded in each case thus amounted to hardly more than Rs. 9.

5. Property stolen and recovered.—The value of property stolen in the Town and Suburbs during the year was Rs. 1,27,776, of which Rs. 92,938, or 72·73 per cent., was recovered. The results of the year in this respect are remarkably good, and the percentage of property recovered is higher than it has been in any preceding year.

6. Cognizable offences in the Town.—The number of true cognizable cases reported within the Town fell from 28,472 to 21,232. The decrease of 7,240 as compared with 1892 occurred chiefly in offences in class VI, under the heads "Other offences" and "Special and local laws," the falling off in these being 3,407 and 3,969 respectively. There were 860 cases under the Hackney Carriage Act, being a decrease of 2,359 cases as compared with last year. The decrease is explained by the change in the law, under which summary arrests are no longer made for these offences, the procedure by summons having lessened the number of prosecutions. No corresponding increase, however, is observed among the non-cognizable cases in the returns. The number of offences under the Police Act (street offences and nuisances) fell from 10,037 to 7,086, being a decrease of 2,951, which occurred chiefly in cases of "obstruction" and "leaving carriages without control." No explanation of the decrease has been given in the Report, but the Lieutenant-Governor has since been informed that it is due to the issue of orders to the police to use their power under the Act with greater discretion, as it was one of the alleged causes of the hackney carriage strike which occurred on the 23rd January 1893, that the police were too ready to arrest drivers of carriages for petty street offences. The results of the prosecutions in these cases are satisfactory, and out of 8,582 persons placed before the Magistrate, 8,479, or over 98 per cent., were convicted. The decrease of 233 offences under the Shipping Act and of 340 under the Ports Acts has not been explained in the Report, but it is doubtless due to the fact that there were fewer European sailors and fewer ships in the port. There was a decrease of 456 in the number of cases and of 775 in the number of persons arrested under the Cruelty to Animals Act, which is said to be due to the action of the Commissioner of Police, after the hackney carriage strike of January 1893, in warning agents of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to be more careful in making arrests under the Act. Of the 5,257 persons arrested for cruelty to animals, 5,052, or over 96 per cent., were convicted.

7. The Commissioner of Police has given detailed information in his report regarding the various crimes committed during the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it necessary to discuss them at any length. There were 11 cases relating to coin against 5 in the preceding year, but only one of these was of any importance, and in this two Muhammadan accused, father and son, were sentenced by the High Court to two and five years' rigorous imprisonment respectively for fraudulent delivery of counterfeit Queen's coin and being in possession of instruments for coining. Out of nine cases of murder, in two the accused were convicted, one of them being sentenced to death and the other to transportation for life. In one case the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder, but the Police Surgeon, after a careful enquiry, came to the conclusion that the case was one of suicide. There were two cases of attempt at murder, one of which ended in the conviction of the accused, who was sentenced to ten years' rigorous imprisonment. Of the two cases of culpable homicide, in one the accused was sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment, and in the other he was discharged, as the Magistrate found that the death was due to heart disease, the condition of the deceased being such that a very trifling injury would have proved fatal. The number of cases of grievous hurt rose from 31 to 35, and out of 44 persons placed on trial in these cases, 24 were convicted. There were 13 cases of kidnapping compared with 14 in 1892 and an average of 17 in the five preceding years. One important case under section 372, Indian Penal Code, was instituted, in which a woman and two men were charged, at the instance of the leaders of the American Missionary Society in Calcutta, with selling a minor for the purposes of prostitution. The defendants were, however, discharged in the High Court, the presiding Judge holding that to complete the offence punishable under section 372, Indian Penal Code, proof of a continuous letting or hiring for an unlawful or immoral purpose was required, and that the single act said to have been committed by the accused was not sufficient to warrant their being placed on trial. Fifteen persons, who were charged with abducting girls from 7 to 14 years of age from the Midnapore district, were arrested and transferred to that district for trial. All were convicted and sentenced to from two to eight years' rigorous imprisonment. There was one daring case of robbery with hurt, in which two Madrasis were set upon by five up-countrymen and were robbed of Rs. 1,755. All the accused were convicted, four being sentenced to seven years' imprisonment each, and the fifth, a lad, to four years' detention in a Reformatory. There was one case of highway robbery in which three Eurasians were charged, two of them being sentenced to two years' imprisonment each, and one to imprisonment for one year. The number of true cases of burglary and lurking house-trespass rose from 106 to 135, and the number of persons convicted from 97 to 117. The percentage of property recovered to property stolen in these cases shows a satisfactory increase from 60·13 in 1892, and an average of 51·63 in the four preceding years, to 73·24. The number of thefts reported as true was 1,578, and the number detected was 948, being an increase of 196 and 75 respectively as compared with 1892. The increase occurred wholly in petty house-thefts, and is attributed to the unusually large number of wandering thieves from the Upper Provinces who visited the town. The number of persons convicted in these cases was 1,019, which is higher than in any previous year, and the percentage of property recovered was 73·01 against 74·57 in 1892, and an average of 62·49 in the four preceding years. These results are very creditable to the Police.

8. Non-cognizable offences—Town.—The total number of offences reported as true under the Penal Code was 4,464, and under special and local laws 10,804, being a decrease of 755 and 3,239 respectively as compared with 1892. There was a decrease of 3,156 prosecutions under the Municipal Act, chiefly under section 90, and the falling off is said to be due to the fact that a large number of prosecutions in license cases were withdrawn by the Municipal authorities on the defaulters paying their fees. It is not, however, stated that any change took place in the instructions under which the municipal servants acted, and it is noticeable that in the Suburbs there was an increase of 458 in the number of prosecutions under section 90, and of 415 under all sections of the Municipal Act taken together. Prosecutions of this kind are not a desirable way of collecting the taxes, and the decrease noted in the town must be considered as satisfactory provided it is not due to laxity in collecting. Most of the offences in which the decrease has occurred are fiscal, and they ought to continue to diminish with good administration of the municipal taxation, and if severe punishments are meted out to defaulters.

9. Cognizable offences, Suburbs.—The number of these offences fell from 7,085 to 6,733, the decrease of 352 occurring chiefly in cases of house-breaking and theft, and in prosecutions under the Hackney Carriage Act for the reasons already explained. There were five cases relating to coin, in one of which two accused were sentenced to seven and two years' imprisonment respectively for being found in possession of instruments and materials for counterfeiting coin. There were seven cases of murder, in two of which the defendants were discharged for want of evidence, and in a third the murderer committed suicide. In a fourth case the person suspected has so far managed to evade arrest, and in the three remaining cases no trace of the murderers can be found. There were two cases of attempt at murder, in one of which the accused was sentenced to transportation for life, and in the other, which was that of a life-convict who attempted to murder a fellow-prisoner in jail, the accused was sentenced to be hanged. In a case tried before the Sessions Judge of Alipore two women were charged with kidnapping and selling, and a third with buying or hiring, a girl of about 12 years of age for an immoral purpose. All three accused were convicted and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment each. While the number of true cases of burglary and lurking house-trespass reported fell from 91 to 76, which is lower than in any previous year, the ratio of cases detected and of persons convicted is unusually high, the number having risen from 49 and 53 in 1892 to 54 and 67 respectively. The number of thefts fell from 446 to 417, but the number of cases detected and of persons convicted rose from 294 and 321 in 1892 to 312 and 338 in 1893. As in the case of burglaries, these figures are very satisfactory, and reflect credit on the working of the Suburban Police.

10. Non-cognizable offences, Suburbs.—There were 4,481 cases against 4,368 in 1892. There were five cases of forgery and one of extortion, but these were all unimportant and call for no special remark.

11. Suicides and accidental deaths.—There were 69 cases of suicide in the Town and 33 in the Suburbs, making a total of 102 cases as compared with 87 in 1892. Of the total number of suicides during the year, 34 per cent. were caused by hanging and 45 per cent. by opium-poisoning. The number of accidental deaths was 349 as against 276 in 1892. Of these deaths, 32 were those of persons run over and killed by vehicles, but no case occurred in which there was evidence of rashness or negligence. Thirty-eight persons were prosecuted for rash and furious driving, and of these 34 were convicted.

12. European Vagrancy Act.—Fifty vagrants were admitted into the Government Work-house during the year, one was received from Muzaffarpur under section 6, and 4 were in the Work-house at the close of the preceding year, making a total of 55 admissions, or a decrease of 5 as compared with 1892. Of these, 16 were discharged on obtaining employment, 9 were released under the first clause of section 16 of the Act, and 5 were deported from British India. Four inmates of the Work-house absconded and 6 were imprisoned, while 8 remained in the Work-house at the close of the year.

13. Fire-Brigade Act.—The steam fire-engines of the Brigade were in attendance at 28 fires compared with 34 in 1892. There were 20 other petty fires also, at which assistance was rendered by the manual engines stationed at the out-stations. The total value of the property destroyed by these fires is estimated at Rs. 6,10,524 as compared with Rs. 12,95,045 in 1892, but the latter figures do not include the value of the cargo destroyed on the ship Dumbarton Rock, which was estimated at several lakhs. Six of the fires, in which property to the value of Rs. 4,53,744 was destroyed, occurred in steamers or godowns in which jute was stored. No fire during the year was attended with the loss of human life.

14. Constitution of the Police force.—The total strength of the force was 2,873, or the same as in 1891 and 1892. The number of casualties was 241 and the percentage 8·38, the figures being the same as in the previous year. The number of deaths fell from 26 to 25, and the ratio per mille from 9·49 to 8·70. The total cost of the force was Rs. 6,18,681, being a decrease of Rs. 12,086 as compared with 1892.

Owing to the abnormal rainfall of the year and the general unhealthiness of the season, the daily average number of men in hospital rose from 88·36 in 1892 to 100. The Commissioner of Police reports that this, added to the rise in the price of food-grains which induced many of the constables to stint themselves for the sake of their families, and thus injuriously affected their health, rendered it often difficult to maintain an effective night watch. Towards the close of the year the Government sanctioned a batta allowance of Rs. 1-8 per mensem for the men stationed in the most unhealthy Suburban tracts, and in some instances it was found necessary to recruit these tracts by the transfer to them of constables from the town force. Considering the difficulties with which they had to contend, the good results of the work done by the Calcutta Police during the year are all the more creditable to them, and Sir Charles Elliott is glad to receive the assurance of Sir John Lambert that their duties were carried out cheerfully and without complaint.

15. Rewards.—Rupees 3,242-12 (of which Rs. 864 were paid by individuals) were disbursed as rewards in the Town and Suburbs during the year. No details have been given in the report as to who received these rewards and the number of persons rewarded, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires that in future reports this information may be supplied. It has been ascertained that the total number of persons rewarded in 1893 was 449, of whom 258 were constables, 4 were special constables, 1 was a sowar, and 116 were informers, the remainder being officers of the force.

16. Anthropometry.—The anthropometrical system for the identification of habitual offenders was introduced into Calcutta at the commencement of the year, and before its close the measurements of 695 men were taken, of whom 490 were known to the police as habitual offenders, and 205 were strangers who had been arrested on charges of offences against property. The number of persons marked down on the registers for police surveillance at the close of the year was 595, and all of these should be measured. Sir Charles Elliott is glad to hear that the system has already proved of practical use, and that previous convictions against six men, who had been convicted in districts beyond Calcutta, were traced by its means.

17. Judicial work.—Mr. Marsden held the office of Chief Presidency Magistrate throughout the year except for the period from the 19th September to the 14th December, during which Mr. Pearson officiated for him. Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein, C.I.E., was in charge of the Magistracy of the Northern Division until the 17th May, when he was appointed to officiate as Inspector-General of Registration. During his deputation the Hon'ble Maulvi Abdul Jubbar, Khan Bahadur, held the office of Presidency Magistrate, Northern Division, until the 27th December, when Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein again resumed charge.

18. Court of the Chief Presidency Magistrate.—The number of cases instituted during the year in the Court of the Chief Presidency Magistrate was 10,431 as compared with 13,107 in 1892, and in these 13,279 persons were concerned. Of this number, 12,289 persons were convicted, 30 were committed to take their trial at the High Court, 928 were acquitted or discharged, and 22 remained under trial at the close of the year. The number of persons charged under the Penal Code fell from 5,983 to 4,658, and under the Merchants' Shipping Act from 583 to 326. Out of 2,942 persons prosecuted for cruelty to animals, 2,779 were convicted. The percentage of convictions shows an improvement as compared with last year, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that the complaint made by the Chief Magistrate in his report for 1892, that such prosecutions are often unnecessarily instituted, has not been repeated. The total amount of fines imposed was Rs. 21,599-0-3, of which Rs. 21,138-8-3 were realized. Appeals were preferred to the High Court against the order of the Chief Magistrate in 35 cases, with the excellent result that in every case the appeal was rejected. The High Court was moved to set aside the orders of the Magistrate in six cases, and in one of these the conviction was reversed, and in another a fresh trial was ordered. In 11 cases declared false by the Court, a sum of Rs. 125 was granted as compensation to the 12 persons accused. Fuller details should, however, have been given, and the number of cases in which compensation was ordered under section 560, Criminal Procedure Code, should have been specified, and the amount so granted separately shown.

19. Northern Division Court.—In this Court the number of cases instituted during the year fell from 17,545 to 12,660, and of persons put on trial from 21,121 to 14,602. Of this number, 13,542 were convicted, 33 were committed to the sessions, 1,017 were acquitted, and 6 were pending trial at the close of the year. The results of committals to the sessions were satisfactory, and out of the 33 persons committed, 24 were convicted, 6 were discharged, and 3 were awaiting trial at the close of the year. Twenty cases against 26 persons were declared by the Court as false. In 10 cases Rs. 123 were paid as compensation to the accused under section 552 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and Rs. 14 in two cases under section 560 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The results of appeals preferred to the High Court are satisfactory, and out of 90 orders appealed against 88 were upheld and only 2 were set aside. The High Court was moved in 26 cases, in 14 of which the rules were refused or discharged, in 3 the orders were modified, in 6 retrial was ordered, in 1 a sentence of discharge against four persons was set aside and the case ordered to be committed to the sessions, and in the remaining 2 cases the orders granting compensation were reversed. The total value of the fines imposed during the year was Rs. 21,281-12, of which Rs. 19,017-12 were realized.

20. In his Resolution on last year's Report, in reviewing the work of the Northern Division Court, the Lieutenant-Governor remarked that the large number of persons against whom processes were issued, and the small number from 91 appeared in Court, seemed to indicate a want of sufficient care in issuing detected from 49 such processes and in enquiring into complaints beforehand. The Magistrate of the Northern Division explains that this is not necessarily the case, as in the majority of prosecutions of a petty nature the prosecutor either settles the matter out of Court, or else he withdraws the case in the presence of the Court on the defendants undertaking not to repeat the offence with which they are charged. The Lieutenant-Governor recognizes the force of this contention, but he cannot accept it as an altogether satisfactory explanation of the large proportion of COURT.	Persons against whom processes issued.	Persons who appeared.	Percentage of persons appearing to processes issued.

Chief Magistrate ...	1,557	721	46.3

processes issued to persons appearing in the Northern Division Court. From the figures noted in the margin, it would appear that there is a considerable amount of useless process-serving, and that this is especially the case in the Court of the Magistrate of the Northern Division. In this Court 189 processes were issued against persons charged with cheating under sections 417 to 420 of the Penal Code, and 82 persons actually appeared before the Court, of whom only two were convicted. The offences under these sections are not compoundable, and the figures seem to show that there is something wrong in connection with the issue of processes in this Court. The Magistrate observes that he nearly always refuses applications for processes in cases of assault and hurt, unless the applicant is a respectable man or shows marks of violence. The Lieutenant-Governor notices, however, that not a single complaint under these or any other section is shown in the column provided for the purpose in the statement annexed to the report as having been dismissed under section 203, Criminal Procedure Code, and the same is the case with the Courts of the Chief Magistrate and the Bench Courts. It can hardly be that process was issued on every complaint lodged, and yet this would appear to have been the case from the report now submitted to Government. No distinction also is made in the reports of the Presidency Magistrates between the results of cases sent up by the police and of those of which cognizance is taken by the Courts 'suo motu' or on complaint. For the former the Commissioner of Police is responsible, but in the latter the responsibility rests with the Magistrates by whom process is issued, and His Honour desires that in future reports the results of these different classes of cases may be separately shown.

21. The Lieutenant-Governor further observes that no information has been furnished regarding the adjournment of cases and the detention of witnesses in the various Courts. The Chief Presidency Magistrate has given a table which shows that only 34 cases were adjourned by the Bench Courts, but no reference is made to the number of adjournments either in the Chief Magistrate's Court or in that of the Magistrate of the Northern Division. From paragraph 35 of Sir John Lambert's report it appears that the total number of cases adjourned before the Northern Division Court has risen from 131 to 227, and before the Chief Presidency Magistrate from 121 to 187, notwithstanding the fact that the number of cases tried by each Court has decreased. Some reference to these adjournments and to the reasons for the increase should have been given in the Report. In regard to the detention of witnesses, the Lieutenant-Governor believes that the Presidency Magistrates are required to maintain a register of all witnesses examined, and to report the number, together with other statistics, to the High Court; but in his opinion they should also be required to keep up the Witness Register in the form prescribed by the High Court, which is maintained in all Subordinate Courts in the mufassal. This subject will be separately considered.

22. Work of the Honorary Magistrates.—The number of cases other than municipal transferred to the Bench of Magistrates was 1,060, and 852 were transferred to Honorary Magistrates sitting singly, making a total of 1,912 as compared with 2,709 in the previous year. Of the total number of cases instituted, 1,582 as compared with 1,689 in 1892 were under the Penal Code, 35 as compared with 51 were miscellaneous cases under the Criminal Procedure Code, and 295 as against 969 were offences against local laws. Of these cases, 156 were struck off without trial, and in the remainder 2,600 persons were implicated, of whom 1,204 were acquitted or discharged (including those in cases which were compromised or in which the parties were absent), 1,392 were convicted, and 4 were awaiting trial at the close of the year. The total amount of fines imposed was Rs. 6,125-11, of which Rs. 5,176-8 were realized. Eleven cases were declared false, frivolous or vexatious, and in these compensation to the extent of Rs. 106 was awarded. Out of 21 appeals preferred to the High Court, 12 were rejected, and in one case the conviction was upheld, although the sentence was reduced. Out of 5 cases in which the High Court was moved, in one only was the order set aside.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the Chief Presidency Magistrate is once more able to bear tribute to the excellent work done by the Honorary Magistrates during the year, and to the great assistance rendered by them to the administration of justice. The complaint that has repeatedly been made in former years; of irregularity of attendance, has not been repeated; but the Lieutenant-Governor notices that several Honorary Magistrates are still very negligent in this respect, and that some during the past year have failed to attend on repeated occasions when invited to do so. In aggravated cases the Honorary Magistrates should be called upon for an explanation of their continued absence. The number of Magistrates who attended one or more sittings of the Bench rose from 86 to 94, and the average number of sittings per Magistrate was 11·6 as compared with 11·7 in the preceding year.

24. Municipal prosecutions.—The total number of prosecutions was 10,121, as against 13,253 in 1892, the decrease of 3,132 occurring chiefly in license prosecutions. The number of cases brought to trial was 5,707, and in these 3,051 resulted in the acquittal or discharge of the accused; the number of persons convicted being 2,656. The total value of the fines imposed was Rs. 13,288-13, of which Rs. 10,659-3 were realized.

25. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction the favourable mention made by Sir John Lambert of Mr. H. E. C. Paget, who officiated as Deputy Commissioner of Police during the absence of Mr. A. B. Barnard on furlough; and of the other officers named in paragraph 38 of the report. To Sir John Lambert himself the thanks of Government are due for his most efficient administration of the Department under his control, and to Mr. Marsden, Mr. Pearson, Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein, C.I.E., and the Hon'ble Maulvi Abdul Jubbar for the good work done by them during the year. The names of the subordinate officers favourably mentioned have been noted.

ORDER. Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information and communication to the Presidency Magistrates, and to the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, and the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta, for information.

Ordered, also, that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

EXPENDITURE ON EDUCATION BY DISTRICT BOARDS.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Darjeeling, the 28th June 1894.

RESOLUTION—No. 306T.M.

READ again—

The Resolutions on the workings of District Boards in Bengal for 1891-92 and 1892-93.

In the Resolutions cited above, the Lieutenant-Governor reviewed, among other things, the expenditure incurred by District Boards in either year upon education generally, and upon that class of education which falls within the category of primary instruction; in the latter of the two he commented at some length upon the comparative expenditure of the various Boards throughout the province, and reiterated in paragraph 36 the principle that until full provision has been made for primary education in a district, no part of a Local Fund should be diverted to the support of education of a higher kind, since this is beyond the needs of the majority of tax-payers, and may well be paid for by those who desire it. Since the issue of that Resolution the Lieutenant-Governor has again had under his consideration the whole question of the educational expenditure of District Boards, and he desires to draw the attention of all concerned to the following observations which are the outcome of his enquiries and reflections.

2. • The figures given in paragraph 37 of the Resolution of the 18th December 1893 were taken from those set forth in Form III appended to that Resolution, which shows the expenditure of District Boards in 1892-93, supplemented by statistics drawn from the reports of Divisional Commissioners. But it has been rightly pointed out by the Director of Public Instruction that the sums entered under the head of "Primary Schools" in column 22 of that Form represent much less than the amount actually expended on primary education by the District Boards of Bengal, and that any calculations based upon those figures alone must necessarily be misleading. Sir A. Croft has urged that, besides the sums actually expended upon the direct maintenance and aid of primary schools, considerable expenditure is incurred every year by District Boards under the heads of "Inspection," "Scholarships," "Buildings and furniture," "Charges on account of abolished schools," "Examinations, prizes, and rewards," and "Miscellaneous," and that in some cases all, in others a large proportion, of this expenditure is incurred on account of primary schools.

3. The propriety of this contention the Lieutenant-Governor unhesitatingly admits, and he has accordingly caused to be prepared, in consultation with the Director of Public Instruction, from the figures supplied to the Education Department from each district for the preparation of General Table IV, attached to the Director's Annual Report, a fresh series of statistics, showing what the real expenditure of each District Board was in 1892-93 on primary education and on education generally, and also what ratio these bore to the ordinary income of the Board. Under one of the heads of account mentioned by the Director of Public Instruction, viz. "Scholarships," the expenditure was easily separable, and it has accordingly been separated: in other cases it was only possible to fix a percentage which should represent a fair share of the expenditure, and accordingly His Honour has been pleased to decide that of the actual expenditure of District Boards on education in 1892-93, the following proportions under each head should be debited to primary instruction:—"Inspection," 90 per cent.; "Buildings and furniture," 75 per cent.; "Charges for abolished schools" and "Cost of examinations, prizes and rewards," the whole; and "Miscellaneous," 50 per cent. With these principles for a basis, the figures for 1892-93 have been recalculated as well as those for 1888-89, that being the first year in which the system was in force of allotments to District Boards to produce equilibrium between their receipts and their expenditure upon certain branches of the administration placed under their control: a statement has been prepared, which is appended to this Resolution, comparing the educational expenditure in each of those years, while two subsidiary statements give the details of the expenditure on primary education shown in the larger statement. The headings of these statements explain themselves, and it is only necessary to say that the difference between the figures in columns 2 and 8 of the general statement is due to the fact that the former exclude and the latter include grants for lower primary scholarships, the control over which, together with allotments to pay for them, was made over to District Boards in the year 1891-92, and also that the "ordinary income" in columns 3 and 9 has been calculated by deducting from the figures in column 73 of Form II of the District Board Resolution the total of columns 63, 68 and 72 of the same form.

4. The first point which cannot fail to suggest itself upon a perusal of these statements is that the expenditure on education, whether general or primary, has not kept pace with the increase of ordinary income, for the difference between the ordinary income of the District Boards in 1888-89 and 1892-93 represents an advance of 15·7 per cent., whereas the general increase in expenditure on education, even although a large annual obligation for lower primary scholarships had been accepted by District Boards in the meantime, is only 2·3 per cent., that on primary education being 3·3 per cent. As the allotment (columns 2 and 8) was larger in 1892-93 than it was in 1888-89 by 2·9 per cent., it is clear that the expenditure on education generally has not advanced at all, and that the measure of the increase of that on primary education is only ·4 per cent. Put in another way, it appears that the addition of the grant for lower primary scholarships has raised the sum directly available to District Boards for expenditure on education by Rs. 29,520, but the additional sum which they actually spent on education generally in 1892-93 was only Rs. 23,668, out of which the additional expenditure on primary education was represented by Rs. 23,238. Practically it may be said of the province generally that out of the increase in their income of 12·8 per cent. (excluding the 2·9 per cent. represented by the additional lower primary scholarship grant), the District Boards have spent nothing on education.

5. But though this remark is true of the province as a whole, it is not true of all its parts. Taking first the percentages of total expenditure on education (columns, 6 and 12), it will be seen from the figures below that the Presidency and Orissa Divisions have an advance of 3·5 and 3·6 per cent. respectively. These two Divisions also stand very high in respect of the proportion spent on education in 1892-93. The largest falling off is seen in Dacca (8·2 per cent.) followed by Chittagong (4·6 per cent.). Of the thirty-eight districts in which the Local Self-Government Act is in force, there has been an increase in seventeen and a falling off in twenty, the proportion in Mymensingh remaining practically unaltered. In the Presidency Division the increase is universal, as is the decrease in those of Dacca (except Mymensingh) and Chittagong. In the Rajshahi and Bhagalpur Divisions the districts are equally divided, while in the other Divisions the proportions vary, the Patna Division having an increase in two and a decrease in five, and the Orissa Division showing an increase in two out of its three districts.

6. As regards the proportionate expenditure, not on education generally, but on primary instruction, columns 7 and 13 of the general statement supply the figures required for a comparison of this nature between the expenditure of 1888-89 and of 1892-93. The Divisional figures show that, as in the matter of general educational expenditure, so too in expenditure on primary education, there has been a falling off in every Division except those of the Presidency and Orissa; but the differences are not so great, ranging between an increase of 3 per cent. in the Presidency Division and a decrease of 4·9 in Chittagong. The statistics for districts show that in respect of expenditure on primary education the facts are very much what they have been noticed to be for educational expenditure generally, for twenty-one districts display a falling off and seventeen an increase, and with three exceptions the districts in each case are identical. These exceptions are Hooghly, which shows a decrease under primary education, but an increase in its proportionate expenditure on general education, while on the other hand Pabna and Chittagong with a smaller proportionate expenditure under the head of general education, show an advance under that of primary instruction.

7. How the variations in the proportionate expenditure of 1888-89 and 1892-93 have occurred is shown clearly in the following table, where the total difference in the proportionate expenditure in each of the two years is dissected so as to show the variation under "Primary" and under "Other education," and it will be seen that while thirteen districts have reduced their expenditure under both heads, fourteen others have increased it under both heads. Again, six—Murshidabad, Khulna, Pabna, Chittagong, Patna and Darbhanga—have increased their primary expenditure and decreased that under education other than primary; while in opposition to the known policy of Government, in six cases—Hooghly, Rajshahi, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Noakhali, and Purnea—the primary expenditure has been starved for the benefit of secondary or technical instruction or both. Shahabad and Monghyr have reduced their proportionate expenditure on primary instruction, but left untouched that on other education.

The most remarkable figures in the foregoing statement are those for (a) Burdwan with its total decrease of 20.3 per cent., three-fourths of which have occurred under education other than primary; (b) Bankura with a falling off of 26·6 per cent., occurring under both heads; (c) Hooghly with a considerable rise under "other" education, provided apparently by a reduction of expenditure on primary education; (d) Dacca with a large reduction of 21 per cent. in education other than primary; (e) Faridpur with a decrease of nearly 19 per cent., of which two-thirds is under primary education; (f) Tippera and (g) Chittagong with a large shrinkage of 9·3 and 8·2 per cent. respectively in primary expenditure; and, lastly (h) Gaya with a falling off of 5·3 per cent. under the same head.

actual expenditure in 1892-93, the percentages of expenditure on primary education in a few districts which have done conspicuously well or ill in that respect are given in the margin; and it may be noted that the provincial average for primary expenditure was 11·9 per cent. of the ordinary income in 1892-93 as against 13·3 per cent. in 1888-89.

9. In the first list the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe, as a sign of increasing activity in a province which has long been considered backward, that three out of the first four are Orissa districts. In his Local Self-Government Report for 1892-93, the Commissioner of that Division refers to the matter, but as his figures take no account of all the additional charges which have now been included as expenditure on primary education, he does not appear to have realised how large a proportion the expenditure on primary education really bore to the ordinary income of these districts, which is comparatively small. In the same way very little is said in the Burdwan Commissioner's report about the expenditure in Bankura, but the ordinary income of the Board (Rs. 91,141) is so small that a liberal allotment for education here, as in Orissa bulks very large.

10. As regards the second list, the Lieutenant-Governor desires to draw the particular attention of the District Boards concerned to the excessively small proportion borne by their expenditure on primary education to their ordinary income. The district which spent the smallest proportion of its income on the elementary education of children is Jalpaiguri, and the next five are all in Bihar. The argument of the District Board in each case will doubtless be that the upkeep of their roads and bridges leaves them no margin for educational expenditure, but the District Board should hold the scales evenly between the different objects to which the funds entrusted to them are devoted. The shortcomings of most of the District Boards in this list were unfavourably noticed in paragraph 33 of the Resolution on District Boards for 1891-92, and the Lieutenant-Governor is disappointed to find that they are still open to criticism. His Honour desires that the Board of each district shown in the foregoing list as spending less than 10 per cent. of its ordinary income on primary education will submit, through the Commissioner, any representations which they may think proper in justification of what appears to have been in some measure a failure in their duty to the poor of the district.

11. It has also been urged by the Chairman of one of the District Boards in question that the obligations of the Board are amply fulfilled so long as their expenditure on education does not fall below the figure given in column 8 of the appended statement as the amount of educational expenditure taken in fixing the grant from Government in 1887-88. This is a plea which the Lieutenant-Governor cannot accept. The sum in question was fixed upon a consideration of the actual expenditure on education during the preceding year, and was not intended to represent a permanent standard which District Boards should be satisfied to attain. Were this view to be accepted, it is manifest that in the backward districts, where the sum originally allotted was necessarily small, no advance would ever be made, and those areas where progress is most desirable would always lag farthest behind. But the Lieutenant-Governor is not blind to the fact that in many of these districts the want of funds seriously hampers the development of primary education, and he is prepared, and is now arranging, upon the recommendation of the Director of Public Instruction, to make grants to such backward districts out of the savings effected year by year in the departmental allotment for primary schools in excluded districts and municipalities.

12. For the future it is hoped that, instead of figures obtained by estimation, it will be possible to show for every district the actual expenditure upon each branch of primary education. The Director of Public Instruction has already by Circular No. 2T. of the 21th June 1894 called for a statement which in future years will be used to amplify Subsidiary Table II (b) of his Annual Report; and the Lieutenant-Governor now desires that the Deputy Inspector of Schools in each district may be directed to supply to the Chairman of the District Board a copy of the figures submitted to the head of the Educational Department in accordance with that circular, in order that these may be embodied in a statement in the accompanying form, which will be added as Appendix C to the Annual Report on the working of District Boards for 1893-94, and may, if necessary, be submitted to the Commissioner after the report itself has been forwarded.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the attention which the compilation of these statistics will cause to be given to this subject will bear fruit in a careful revision of the expenditure on primary education in each district, so that an adequate provision may everywhere be made for the elementary education of the children of the poor.

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL FOR 1893.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Dated Darjeeling, the 28th June 1894.

RESOLUTION No.

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1893.

Read again—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1892, with the Resolution of Government recorded thereon.

The registration of vital statistics has been conducted during the year as previously by the agency of the Police, both in urban and rural areas. The incompleteness of this registration in Bengal has for many years been noticed by the Supreme Government and by successive Lieutenant-Governors with dissatisfaction, but Sir Charles Elliott is glad to see that a distinct, if slight, improvement is now visible, and this is the view taken by the Government of

Improvement in Registration of Vital Statistics.

India in a Resolution recently recorded on the subject. In the year 1881, the registered birth-rate in Bengal was 25·52 per thousand in certain Municipal towns only, and the death-rate was 20·97: in 1893 the recorded birth-rate for the whole province was 35·66, and for towns alone 26·27, while the general death-rate was returned as 28·21 per thousand without any suspicion existing that the rise is due to any real increase in mortality. Those figures will be further discussed in the paragraphs below, but they speak for themselves, and justify the Lieutenant-Governor in congratulating the Sanitary Department on having anticipated the desire of the Government of India that increased attention should be paid to the subject, and a greater accuracy of registration secured.

2. The total number of births registered in the whole province was 2,534,859, giving a birth-rate of 35·66 per thousand, as compared with one of 28·06 in 1892. In last year's Birth-rate.

Resolution the normal birth-rate for these Provinces was estimated at something between 45 and 47 per thousand, but Dr. Gregg contends that the normal rate is not over 40. In the face of Mr. Baines' calculation (pages 61 and 282 of his Report) that the average annual birth-rate for all India is 48 per mille, and that the Bengal rate approaches 50, this estimate appears more than doubtful; but even if it be accepted, the rate returned, viz., 35·66, is still below the truth, though a large improvement was effected during the year under review as compared with previous years. This is further apparent from the fact that there is now for the first time reported in every Division of Bengal an excess of births over deaths. Compared with the statistics elsewhere, the birth-rate in Bengal was lower than in the North-Western Provinces and Central Provinces, as the following figures for 1893 will show:—

North-Western Provinces	40·95	Punjab 34·95
Central Provinces	... 38·23	Assam 30·15
Bengal 35·66	Madras 27·0
Bombay 35·30	Burma 25·69

but whereas in 1892 Bengal stood sixth in the list, it now occupies the third place.

3. The number of towns in which births were registered in 1893 was 147,

Registration of births. Towns. with a population of 3,453,465, as compared with 145 towns in 1892, having a population of 2,768,381.

The number of births recorded was 90,743, giving a ratio of 26·27 per thousand of the population against 70,088 or a ratio of 25·31 per thousand in the previous year. The statistics supplied in the report show on the face of them how unreliable the registration of births in certain urban areas still continues to be. The highest figures were returned by the towns of Mohespur (49·2), Meherpur (47·25), Chanduria (45·5), Lohardaga (43·17), Jamalpur (42·34), Rosera (42·06), Kushtea (41·43), and Jamui (40·02), in all of which the recorded birth-rate exceeded 40 per thousand. In twenty-five other towns it was between 35 and 40; in thirty-one between 30 and 35; and in seventeen it was unde

20 per thousand. Seventeen town areas show a birth-rate of less than 20 per thousand. It is obvious that in large towns and cantonments the birth-rate is generally smaller than in rural areas with the same population, since the former contain a smaller proportion of women, and it is not surprising therefore to find among the seventeen places at the bottom of the list, Calcutta (19.79), Darjeeling (19.44), Dum-Dum (19.23), and Howrah (19.16); this explanation does not always serve, however, and the Lieutenant-Governor must conclude that such figures as those in the margin can hardly represent the actual facts, but must in most cases denote indifferent registration, to which more attention should be paid in the current year.

4. The total number of births recorded in rural areas, of which there are

Registration of births. Rural areas. 558 with a population of 67,616,178, was 2,444,116 against 1,911,872 births in a population, of 67,619,702 in the previous year. The birth-rate in rural areas was 36.14 per thousand against 28.27 in 1892. The highest rates for the rural areas in a district are reported from Nadia (50.66), Murshidabad (47.87), Noakhali, (41.58), Dinajpur (43.73), Rajshahi (43.54), Malda (42.65), while five others have a birth-rate of 40 and more. The lowest rates are recorded in Darjeeling (20.25), the Sonthal Parganas (26.84), Manbhum (28.61), and Shahabad (29.66). Before the 1st of January 1892 births were recorded in urban areas only, and the Lieutenant-Governor considers that it is creditable that the registration should have been as high as 28.27 per thousand in the first year of the system with an improvement of 7.8 per mille in the second twelve months.

5. Taking both town and rural areas together, the male births numbered 1,314,459, and the female births 1,220,400, giving a proportion of 107 male births to every 100 female births. In the Report now under review, Dr. Gregg demurs to the conclusion stated in the Resolution on the Report for 1892, that the registration of female births is still very imperfect, and he urges that more male than female infants are born, citing in support of his contention the fact that a larger number of male deaths is reported among children up to five years of age. But the Lieutenant-Governor cannot accept this reasoning. The statistics furnished in Form I, Appendix I, show that in not a single district was the number of female births reported greater than that of male births, and it seems to His Honour much more reasonable to assume that this disparity is in some measure due to the fact that the birth of a son is more carefully reported than that of a daughter, and that the same feeling—the greater value and importance of male infants—accounts for the greater number of deaths of male infants reported. It was clearly shown at the Census of 1891 that among the infants living under one year of age, the females outnumbered the males: the sentiment already referred to would certainly tend to the more careful preservation of male infants, and it is therefore difficult to avoid the conclusion that the excess in the number of births and deaths of male infants reported is due to a comparative disregard for female infants.

6. The total number of deaths registered during the year was 2,005,463

Registration of deaths. against 2,247,275 in 1892, the death-rate per thousand of population being 28.21 against 31.90 in the previous year. The year 1893 was one of comparative healthiness in Bengal, and it is worthy of notice that this seems to have been the experience of the whole of India, since, with the exception of Burma, every province returned for the year a death-rate lower than that of 1892, as the following figures will show:—

	1892.	1893.
Assam ...	34.21	30.28
Bengal ...	31.90	28.21
Punjab ...	49.48	28.13
Central Provinces	34.14	27.70
Bombay	32.50	27.20
North-Western Provinces	34.11	24.10
Burma	18.83	21.58
Madras	22.3	19.3

Even after making allowance for this fact, however, there can be little doubt that the actual death-rate in Bengal is much higher than that recorded.

7. In urban areas the reported death-rate decreased from 32·75 in 1892 to 30·03 in the year under review, the figures ranging from 63·02 in Netrakona to 13·84 in Maniktola.

Deaths in towns.

Bhadressur and Kotrung in the Hooghly district also return rates of more than 60 per thousand, while in Puri, Malda, and Buxar the death-rate exceeds 50 in the same number; twenty more towns have death-rates of 40 or upwards: the cause of the excessive mortality is said to have been fever aggravated in the worst places by cholera. Forty-four out of one hundred and forty-seven towns returned a death-rate in excess of 34 per thousand, which was calculated by Mr. Bourdillon in his report on the Census of 1881 to be the probable average death-rate in Bengal. Mr. Baines, however, in his report on the Census of 1891 (page 61), reckons the average death-rate for all India to be 41 per mille and it is hardly probable that the mortality in Bengal is so much lower than in the rest of the Empire. It is discreditable to the municipal administration of Maniktola that it should return so obviously untrue a death-rate as 13·84. The next lowest rate is claimed by Darjeeling with 14·20, a figure which (if correct) speaks volumes for the health of the locality. Thirteen other towns, in which the climate has no special reputation for salubrity, return rates of less than 20 per thousand: in all of these the registration of vital statistics demands the attention of the local officials. The death-rate in Calcutta, where deaths are very carefully registered, was 29·51 against a rate of 30·16 in the other towns of Bengal: it is strange that the difference should not be more in favour of Calcutta, the population of which contains an unusually large proportion of persons in the prime of life, and where the sanitary arrangements including a pure water-supply are superior to those of most other towns in the province.

8. For rural areas, seven out of forty-six districts return a death-rate in excess of 34 per thousand. These are Rajshahi (43·05), Darjeeling (42·10), Malda (40·23), Jessore (39·04), Murshidabad (38·99), Nadia (37·33), and Backergunge (36·01). Fever was very fatal in Rajshahi, Jessore, Malda, and Murshidabad, while the well known characteristics of the Terai account for the high rate of mortality in the Darjeeling district. Among units smaller than the district the highest figures are reported from the circles in the margin, the reason for the excessive mortality being given in the Report in each case. Further enquiries should now be instituted by the Sanitary Commissioner with the object of ascertaining how far, by the removal of local causes of disease, the recurrence of such visitations may be prevented. In fifty-seven rural areas the rate is returned at less than 20 per thousand, the lowest of all being the rural area of Dumka in the Sonthal Parganas, from which the absurd figure is returned of 9·74. The attention of all District Officers and Civil Surgeons is called to annual Form No. II in Appendix I to the Report, which, under the orders of the Government of India, has been enlarged and improved.

9. It is remarked at page 15 of the Report that from the third year of life to the twenty-fifth there is very little difference between the mortality of males and females, but that after the later age females die less rapidly than males, the difference in their favour increasing with age. If this were really so, and the births were divided pretty equally between the sexes, such a preponderance in the male death-rate as is shown in the table would soon produce a great deficiency of males. The more correct solution would seem to be that, as suggested in paragraph 5 above, the deaths of male infants are more carefully reported, the parents feeling a greater loss. The mortuary statistics according to age give a mortality of 187·38 per thousand for infants under one year of age, and of 36·56 for children between the ages of 1 and 5 years.

Deaths according to sex.

10. Appendix II gives a list of the number of persons convicted of neglect to register births and deaths in each registering circle, the amount of fines inflicted, and the number of persons warned. An analysis of these figures shows that 1,000 persons were convicted of failure to report: the fines inflicted amounted to Rs. 1,316, and the persons warned numbered 268. It is remarkable that in the districts of Khulna, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Puri and Hazaribagh, not a single individual was warned or punished for failure to report, while no reason is assigned for the total omission of information under this head from Shahabad, Darbhanga and Purnea.

11. The following statement shows separately the death-rate from the principal diseases during the year compared with 1892:—

With the exception of fever and small-pox, diseases usually produce a higher death-rate in towns than in rural areas, the reason assigned by Dr. Gregg being the crowding of persons together in towns, and the consequent violation of sanitary conditions.

12. The mortality from cholera during 1893 was less than half that of the previous year; for 126,976 deaths were recorded against 261,417 in 1892, while for the five years 1888—92 the average was 185,651 deaths. The disease visited every district and attacked altogether 22,444 villages. The most remarkable features in the cholera history of the year were the excessive mortality in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, which are usually comparatively free from this disease, and the immunity of the districts of the Orissa Division, which have of late years frequently suffered severely. Another interesting circumstance which supports the conclusions stated in paragraph 11 of the Resolution of last year was that, owing to the copious rainfall of the first three months of 1893, and the consequent ample supply of drinking-water, there was little or no cholera in the hot months of the year, while on the other hand the unusual prevalence of the disease during the months of October, November, and December is attributed to the excessive rainfall during the monsoon. The Civil Surgeon of Dacca attributes the great mortality, which is the highest on record for that district, to the cause just mentioned, and the same cause is held accountable for the excessive mortality in Tippera. In Noakhali the salt-water inundation, which accompanied the cyclone of the 22nd October, caused the pollution of the drinking-water by destroying all the animal and vegetable life that it contained: a similar result followed the great storm-wave of 1876. In the Orissa Division the highest mortality occurred in the month of August after the Car festival at Puri, which was attended by 200,000 pilgrims: considering the outbreak at Puri itself and all along the road, and what the Lieutenant-Governor has read and heard of the deaths among the returning pilgrims at Cuttack and along the canal, it is very remarkable that instead of the epidemic spreading through the whole of Orissa, the mortality was only about one-eighth of what it was in 1892. Cholera was conspicuous by its absence from fairs and festivals during the year, partly owing to the general sufficiency of drinking water, and partly, no doubt, to the observation of strict sanitary precautions, which are now almost everywhere enforced, and are accepted with a better grace than before. The quotations made by the Sanitary Commissioner from the reports of the local officers afford further testimony to the important part played by water in the spread of cholera, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the power of closing a suspected water-supply, which in the Municipal Amendment Bill has been entrusted to Municipal Commissioners, will be freely used as soon as that Act becomes law.

13. The total number of deaths from small-pox during the year was 14,531 against 22,380 in 1892, representing a ratio of 2 in 10,000 of the population against 3·1. As in the previous year, the disease was most prevalent in Puri and Cuttack.

Small-pox.

Dr. Gregg's observations in connection with the difficulty experienced in carrying on the work of vaccination in Orissa will be dealt with at the time the Vaccination Report of the Province is considered. The high rates of mortality in the towns of Raghunathpur, Chaibassa, Bhagalpur, Puri, and Bhabhua, where the ratio ranged from 9 to 1·46 per thousand of the population, call for strict attention on the part of the local officers concerned. As the Sanitary Commissioner remarks, the excuse that the high rate of mortality was due to importation cannot be accepted, as vaccination is compulsory in towns, and if these five towns had been thoroughly protected by vaccination, as they might well have been, the importation of small-pox could not have done much mischief. It is hardly too much to say that the local authorities in these towns are directly responsible for the deaths from small-pox which occurred in them.

14. The deaths from fever as usual supply a very large proportion of the total mortality of the year, amounting to 73 per cent. of the whole. Although the deaths from this cause were fewer in 1893 than in the previous year, viz., 1,477,288 or 20·78 per thousand, against 1,615,334 or 22·72 per thousand in 1892, they were largely in excess of the average of the last five years, which was 1,264,352 or 17·79 per thousand. This increase Dr. Gregg attributes partly to improved registration and partly to greater saturation of the soil caused by the heavier rains of 1893 falling on a country with defective drainage. As usual the greatest mortality was recorded in the months of October, November and December. The districts in which the mortality was highest are Rajshahi (35·43), Jessore (33·73), Malda (33·28), Murshidabad (30·85), Dinajpur (29·41), Nadia (28·99), and Jalpaiguri (28·11). All these districts, with the exception of Murshidabad, were the most fever-stricken districts in 1892 also. The figures for some of registering circles give evidence of a terrible mortality as the statistics below will show :—

The mortality was lowest in Puri (7·70), Balasore (11·35), Calcutta (11·87), Lohardaga (12·20), Sargan (12·21), Singhbhum (12·35), and Cuttack (12·38). The Sanitary Commissioner has not brought out in the present Report the facts connected with the fever mortality in the Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling Terai, but it is necessary that the subject should be specially noticed in each year's report, and the statistics for 1893 should now be submitted to Government, together with the Civil Surgeon's report on the subject.

15. It was in order to place within reach of the people everywhere the medicine most effectual in affording protection from fever that the Lieutenant-Governor started at the end of the year 1892 the scheme for the more extended supply in Bengal of Government quinine made up into packets containing five-grains each for sale at one pice the packet. As a first step a beginning was made through the agency of the Postal Department, and the first issues were made about the 29th November 1892. By the end of January 1893 all the post offices in the Bengal, Bihar, and Eastern Bengal Circles were supplied with a stock of quinine, and the quantity distributed up to the 31st December 1893 was 1,677½ lbs, the total number of five-grain packets sold in all districts being 1,313,410. Those districts in which fever is usually most prevalent were supplied first, and the Lieutenant-Governor hoped that it would be in them that the fullest advantage would be taken of the scheme: this hope has only been partially realised, for although Jessore and Nadia absorbed large quantities of the drug, the other five districts mentioned in the preceding paragraph took a comparatively small supply. The following figures show the number of quinine packets sold in each of the most feverish districts, and the order in which each district stands in respect both of the prevalence of fever and also of sales of the drug :—

16. The reported deaths from dysentery and diarrhoea, injury and the mis-

Mortality from "Other causes." cellaneous causes grouped under the head of "Other causes" were 41,150, 31,311, and 314,207 respectively. As usual, Darjeeling suffered most from dysentery and diarrhoea, followed by Calcutta, Howrah, Balasore, and Puri. The ratio of reported deaths from these two diseases per thousand of the population was the same for 1892 and 1893, in urban areas, viz. 2·98, and in rural circles it was 45 in 1893 against 59 in 1892.

Expenditure on urban sanitation. 17. The total expenditure incurred by municipalities for sanitary purposes is shown in the following table:—

Total, including roads ...	19,81,829	21,14,842	1,33,013

It is satisfactory to note an increase of expenditure under "Drainage" and "Water-supply." The most important schemes in progress during the year were the construction of water-works at Arrah and Maniktala, the improvements in those at Burdwan and the introduction of better drainage in Patna. But a good deal of attention was directed to sanitary improvement in other towns such as Howrah, where it is proposed to reorganise the conservancy establishment, and Puri, where an attempt has been made to cleanse the Swetganga, the filthiest of its tanks, and to introduce better sanitary arrangements in its numerous lodging-houses. Some progress was made also in the scheme for supplying with pure water the municipalities on the left bank of the Hooghly above Calcutta. The town in which the largest proportion of municipal income was devoted to original sanitary works was Maniktala (39.31), while on the other hand in 47 municipalities nothing at all was spent under this head. This year, as in 1892, the town in which the highest proportion of municipal income was devoted to sanitary works of an annually recurring nature was Nasirabad, where an expensive water-works establishment is maintained.

18. Appendix V furnishes a list of the sanitary works executed in towns and rural areas by District Boards and Municipalities and by private individuals. The total cost of the works undertaken and completed by the several local bodies during 1893 is said to have been Rs. 2,17,729, against Rs. 3,34,658 in 1892, while that of those in progress in towns is estimated at Rs. 3,79,196 against Rs. 62,874. The total amount spent by private individuals on sanitary works during the year was Rs. 3,69,889 against Rs. 3,19,169. These works were tanks and wells for the most part, and large sums have been contributed on this account in various districts by the wealthy nobility and gentry of the locality. These donations have in most cases been suitably acknowledged already, but the Lieutenant-Governor again takes the opportunity of thanking the donors and of reminding other wealthy gentlemen of the great benefits which such works confer upon their poorer countrymen. Dr. Gregg reiterates the despondent opinions he has expressed on previous occasions of rural sanitation in Bengal, where the people continue to disregard the most elementary rules of hygiene. It is unfortunately the case that these rules are neither believed nor followed by the mass of the people, but the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that, tedious though the process may be, reform must be left to spontaneous development. No widespread revolution of this character can take place with any prospect of stability unless it derives its impulse from the people themselves, or at any rate commands their sympathy. At present they are not prepared for any measure of sanitary compulsion; especially if such a measure would necessitate additional taxation, but a considerable section of the more enlightened members of the native community recognise the merits of well-considered schemes of drainage, and there has been a general awakening to the importance of a pure water-supply: and though the day is doubtless far distant when the sanitation of Bengal shall be placed on a sound footing, Sir Charles Elliott is satisfied that progress has been made, and that the attention which has been drawn to the subject during the year 1893, one outcome of which is the Sanitary Drainage Bill now before the Legislative Council, and another the arrangements made for the analysis of drinking water by an experienced chemist, will certainly not fail to produce useful results.

19. The most important work undertaken by the Sanitary Board was the preparation of the scheme for supplying filtered water to the municipality of Howrah. The scheme as first designed contemplated an intake at Bellore, two miles north of the town, but arrangements have since been made which will enable the water to be taken at a point much higher up the river, where it is less contaminated. A survey for the drainage and possible sewerage of the town of Howrah is still in progress. The Engineer to the Board and the Officiating Sanitary Commissioner were occupied on a Committee to enquire into the purity of the Darjeeling water-supply; this matter is still engaging the Board's attention. Besides these projects, the Sanitary Board gave their advice to municipalities on various projects, notably on the sewerage and drainage of Dacca, the improvement of the drainage of Jessore, and the condition of the river Bhyrub near that place. The Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that their work for the year has been useful and important.

20. The number of municipalities inspected by the Sanitary Commissioner was 43, against 35 in the previous year, but the period during which he, as well as the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners under him, were on tour has not been stated, although in the Resolution on the Report for 1891 the Lieutenant-Governor directed that this should be mentioned in future reports. The Sanitary Commissioner is now requested to carry out these instructions. The Officiating Sanitary Commissioner, Dr. Dyson, wrote useful inspection reports on five and Dr. Gregg on four of the Municipalities they visited. The work of the Department was much hampered by frequent changes in the posts of Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, but Dr. D. M. Moir, during the five months that he remained in the Department, rendered important services, for which the acknowledgments of the Lieutenant-Governor are due. His Honour is glad to receive once more an assurance of the good work done by Mr. G. C. Stawell, the Engineer to the Sanitary Board, and other officers subordinate to the Sanitary Commissioner. Dr. Gregg himself, whose place was filled to the Lieutenant-Governor's entire satisfaction by Surgeon-Captain Dyson from the Punjab, was on leave for six months during the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that he has returned to his duties with restored health and increased vigour.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE INLAND EMIGRATION REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1893.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 30th June, 1894.

RESOLUTION—No. 2235.

READ—

The Report of the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, on Inland Emigration for the year 1893.

THE Report on Inland Emigration for the year 1893 is submitted by Dr. R. Macleod, who acted as Superintendent of Emigration throughout the year, with the exception of a short period during which he was absent on leave and Dr. W. Forsyth acted for him. The arrangement of the Report follows the simplified lines laid down by the Lieutenant-Governor in dealing with the Report for the year 1891, and enables the history of the various classes of emigrants to be traced, so far as the circumstances admit, from the recruiting districts in Bengal along the different routes adopted to the conclusion of the river journey in Assam, Cachar or Sylhet.

2. During the year the Act, formerly known as the Inland Emigration Act, 1882, was amended by Act VII of 1893, and the title of the consolidated Act was changed to the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1882. The principal changes introduced were the revision of the procedure for dealing with unhealthy gardens, the reduction of the maximum period of labour contracts from five years to four years, and the legalization of labour contracts executed at Dhubri. A revised edition of the Rules under the Act, rendered necessary by its amendment, was prepared during the year, and has since been issued.

In September last the Inland Emigrants Health Act I (B.C.) of 1889 was extended to the Sonthal Parganas, where it was not previously in force. The revised rules under this Act, to which reference was made in the Resolution issued last year, still remain under the consideration of the Government of India.

3. There were six licensed contractors, two of whom closed their depôts early in the year, leaving four at the close with one sub-contractor. The staff employed consisted of 24 licensed recruiters, who registered 4,484 intending emigrants, of whom 3,634 were labourers and 850 dependants, against 4,712 registered by 31 recruiters in 1892. In that year 365 emigrants were recruited in Madras, whereas in 1893 no recruiting was effected in that province by any licensed contractor. The average number registered by each recruiter was 186 against 152 in the preceding year. This high average, coupled with the fact that of the total number, 4,123 were registered in the 24-Parganas, leads to the conclusion that emigrants were largely recruited from the depôts for free emigrants established in Calcutta and its neighbourhood by contractors working outside the provisions of the Assam Labour and Emigration Act. Some of the emigrants were rejected or deserted after registration, the aggregate number accommodated in the Calcutta depôts being 4,616, including 218 left over from the previous year. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure the satisfactory account which Dr. McConnell, the Medical Inspector of Emigrants, is able to give of the condition of the depôts and the attention paid to sanitation. In the result the year was a remarkably healthy one, the total number of admissions into hospital being 47, or one per cent. of the depôt population, against 2·3 and 2·6 per cent. in the two preceding years. There were three deaths against 27 in 1892, the percentages being 0·06 and 0·53 respectively. Though not so marked, an improvement is also noticeable in the number of emigrants rejected on medical grounds or discharged, which was 306 against 410 in the preceding year, and also in the number of deserters, 151 against 201. Four thousand and ninety-four emigrants were despatched to Goalundo, the port invariably chosen for contractors' emigrants, leaving a balance of 92 in the depôts at the close of the year. Two emigrants deserted on the way to Goalundo, and eleven were released after arrival. The remainder, numbering 4,081, were embarked in river steamers—

2,921 proceeding to Assam and 1,160 to Cachar and Sylhet. No casualties of any kind occurred on the journey to Assam, and one child was born; so that 2,922 emigrants disembarked at the final landing stations. Of the emigrants whose destination was Cachar and Sylhet, 3 died on the way, and 1,157 were finally landed. No deaths from cholera occurred among emigrants of this class at any stage of the journey.

4. The sardari emigrants are recruited by certificated garden sardars and sardarnis, generally under the supervision of local agents, and by special local agents. Of the latter,

there were five during the year who registered 3,500 emigrants, chiefly obtained, it is supposed, with the help of the free emigration system of collecting labour. In the preceding year 7 special local agents registered 3,217 emigrants. The number of garden sardars employed was 4,762, which is largely in excess of the number in preceding years; the emigrants registered by them numbered 10,657, being an average of a little over two emigrants to each sardar. Adding 109 emigrants registered by 104 sardarnis, the total amounts to 10,766 against 10,191 registered by this agency in 1892. Inclusive of those registered by "special local agents" without the intervention of garden sardars, who should be shown separately in future, the total number of so-called sardari emigrants registered was 14,266 against 13,408. It is worthy of note that more than the entire increase was drawn from the recruiting districts* of Bengal, which supplied 12,887 emigrants, against 11,238 in the previous year, while the number recruited in Bihar fell from 2,170 in 1892 to 1,379 in 1893. Including emigrants registered but not despatched in the previous year, 13,682 left the recruiting districts for Goalundo and 1,576 for Dhubri.

left behind or were released or deserted, against 126 in the previous year, and five emigrants died, three from cholera, against 17 deaths in the previous year, of which 16 were from cholera. Of the remainder, 8,905 embarked for Assam, 3,092 for Cachar, and 1,635 for Sylhet, one emigrant remaining at Goalundo at the close of the year. Similarly, in regard to the Dhubri emigrants, two deaths from cholera occurred prior to embarkation, against 12 deaths (11 from cholera) in the previous year. The number finally embarked was 1,563, the balance being variously accounted for. The total number of sardari emigrants embarked at Goalundo and Dhubri for Assam was therefore 10,465. During the river journey there were three desertions and one death, due to cholera, against 58 deaths, of which 50 were due to cholera, and 7 left behind in the year before, so that, inclusive of one child born on the way, 10,465 emigrants were disembarked at the final landing stations. The emigrants bound to Cachar lost four of their number by desertion and one death occurred from cholera, while two children were born. There were no casualties among those whose destination was Sylhet. The number finally landed was 3,089 in Cachar and 1,635 in Sylhet, making a total of 4,724.

6. No record is kept in the recruiting districts of the number of free emigrants actually despatched to Goalundo or Dhubri, but the Emigration Agents stationed at these places have this year been able to furnish statistics which may be accepted as approximating to the truth. 23,654 emigrants are said to have left the recruiting districts for Goalundo and 8,061 for Dhubri, making a total of 31,715. This does not, however, include those who may have been transported from up-country by boat to Sylhet or Cachar, regarding whom the Superintendent of Emigration received no information. One death occurred at Goalundo from cholera; and prior to arrival at Dhubri three deaths occurred. Further deductions have to be made on account of emigrants who deserted, or were released, or left behind; and while only 11 emigrants were left behind during the journey to Goalundo, 270 emigrants, or 3.34 per cent. of those who travelled by this route, were left behind before arrival at Dhubri. The corresponding figures in the case of sardari emigrants are 12 and 3 respectively. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that in future reports some indication may be given as to what becomes of the emigrants left behind in the course of the railway journey to Goalundo and Dhubri, to whatever class they may belong. The number of free emigrants finally embarked at Goalundo amounted to 23,597, of whom 13,008 were destined for Assam, 4,116 for Cachar, and 6,473 for Sylhet. Of the emigrants bound for Cachar and Sylhet, 662 were embarked on country boats and the remainder on steamers. So far as could be ascertained, no casualties occurred among the former. Among the latter only two deaths occurred—both due to cholera. The number of emigrants disembarked was therefore 10,587 against 10,080 in the preceding year. Of the Assam emigrants (all of whom travelled by steamer), four died of cholera before reaching Dhubri, against 17 (15 from cholera) in 1892, while 12,773 were landed at Dhubri to execute labour contracts, thus augmenting the number of free emigrants accommodated during the year at Dhubri to 20,574.

7. As quarterly statistics are now received from the recruiting districts, and a quarterly Resolution is issued by this Government regarding all complaints made to the Police or Magistrates, and all cases judicially tried by the latter, the subject-matter of which is kidnapping or illegal restraint or confinement by recruiters or other offence connected with emigration, it is unnecessary to mention the subject in the Annual Report on Inland Emigration or in the Government Resolution thereon.

8. The results of the year's operations are comprehensively shown in the following two tables:—

Total	36,747	33,333	8,802	8,784	6,675	7,684	52,224	49,801

These figures show that, while there has been a slight decrease in the number of contractors' emigrants, and a considerable decrease in that of free emigrants, the number of emigrants recruited under the sardari system has increased. The total number of emigrants registered under the Act increased from 18,120 in 1892 to 18,750, the number embarked from 18,235 to 19,276, and the number disembarked from 18,181 to 19,268. Taking all classes, however, the year shows a diminution in the volume of emigration, the total number of emigrants landed in the labour districts being 52,224 in 1892 and 49,801 in 1893. The increase in the number of garden sardars employed, and the small number of emigrants recruited by each sardar, have been noticed above, and it is probable that emigrants recruited personally by trustworthy sardars deputed from the tea gardens for this purpose are found to be more satisfactory, and perhaps in the long run cheaper than the emigrants supplied by contractors, whether licensed under the Act or not.

9. The differences between the numbers despatched from the recruiting districts and the numbers embarked and disembarked have been explained in some detail in the preceding paragraphs, and columns 10 to 21 of table (1) above give the total number of casualties under each head, subsequent to the emigrants leaving the recruiting districts. It is of course desirable that intending emigrants should be allowed every opportunity of reconsidering their position on their way to the labour districts, and that, if unfit or unwilling to proceed, they should be sent back or permitted to return to their homes in accordance with the rules in force or the conditions under which they agreed to emigrate. Nevertheless it is clearly beneficial both to the emigrants concerned, and to those who are engaged in the supply of labour, that the proportion of those who desert or whom it is found necessary to release or discharge after the journey has begun should be reduced so far as possible, and the Lieutenant-Governor will be glad if, with the co-operation of contractors and others, some attempt be made to effect an improvement in this respect. The proportion is considerably the largest in the case of contractors' emigrants, but it is also appreciable in the case of free emigrants. In both cases much might be done by insisting on more careful recruiting in the first instance, thereby saving many labourers from much unnecessary harassment, and obviating the necessity for spending large sums in returning them to their homes. With these remarks, however, His Honour must express himself well satisfied with the results of the year, and especially with the remarkable immunity from cholera enjoyed by emigrants of all classes. The total mortality caused by this disease in the course of the journey to the labour districts fell from 260 in 1892 to 17 in 1893, and the mortality from other causes was also much diminished.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the efficient manner in which Dr. R. Macleod, Superintendent of Emigration, and Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel J. F. P. McConnell, Medical Inspector of Emigrants, performed their duties.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1893-94, UNDER THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE
AND FIRE-BRIGADE ACTS IV AND I RESPECTIVELY
OF 1883 AND 1893.

The following report is published for general information.

J. A. BOURDILLON,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Dated Calcutta, the 23rd May 1894

From—E. W. COLLIN, Esq., Chairman, Howrah Municipality,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to report on the working of the licensed warehouses in this Municipality for the year 1893-94. There were in all 271 warehouses comprised of the following :—

For storage of Jute	19
Ditto Cotton	36
Ditto Straw	63
Ditto Wood	151
Ditto Rags	1
Ditto Hay	1

2. The income from license fees on these warehouses amounted to Rs. 5,592. In accordance with Municipal Department, Municipal No. 29T.M., dated the 30th of August 1893, the fees for the first quarter of the year were levied under the old Act IV (B.C.) of 1883, and for the remaining three quarters under the new Act I (B.C.) of 1893. A classified list of the licensed cotton and jute warehouses is given in Appendix A, these being the most important, while for the other numerous warehouses no list is given. One new jute warehouse was added to the old list, together with ten new cotton warehouses, making a total of eleven additional jute and cotton warehouses established during the year.

3. In addition to the jute and cotton warehouses licensed during the year under the old and the new Acts, there were 216 warehouses other than jute and cotton, such as those for the storage of wood, straw, hay and rags. These warehouses, previous to the year 1893-94, were licensed under section 261 of Act III (B.C.) of 1884, but in July 1893 were brought under the provisions of Act I of 1893.

4. The amount of fines from prosecutions instituted under section 14 of the new Act was Rs. 68.

5. The expenditure incurred in assessing and collecting the license fees, in supervising the Department in which this work was done, and for contingencies and repairs to a Municipal Fire-engine, amounted to Rs. 1,389, particulars in detail being given below :—

			Rs.	A.	P.
1. Salary of General Supervisor and Assessor	750	0	0
2. Ditto Clerks	205	5	3
3. Ditto Peon	32	7	0
4. Contingencies	16	11	0
5. Repairs to Municipal Fire-engine	385	0	0
Total	1,389	7	3

6. A further sum of Rs. 110 was paid to the Port Commissioners as rent of a tiled hut for sheltering a hand-pump belonging to the Howrah Branch of the Calcutta Fire-brigade.

7. Payments on account of refund of excess collections made during the early part of the year amounted to Rs. 467.

8. The total expenditure therefore amounted to Rs. 5,634.

9. The Fire-brigade establishment has hitherto remained under the control of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta. The Fire-brigade Station in Howrah is most centrally situated, standing next to the Municipal Market, and so located as to admit of the watch overlooking the whole town and detecting all fires occurring. There were ten fires during the year. A statement in Appendix B shows the particulars of each fire with the destruction of property in each individual instance.

10. The total amount remitted to the Commissioner of Police during the year was Rs. 3,668 as required by Municipal Department, Municipal No. 29T.M., dated the 20th August 1893.

First forecast of the jute crop in Bengal for season 1894 (to the middle of June).

1. Explanatory.—The number of jute-growing districts from which forecasts have been received this year is 26, and includes for the first time the districts of Burdwan, Murshidabad, Backergunge, Noakhali, and Bhagalpur.

2. Season.—A moderate amount of rain fell in April throughout the entire jute-growing area, and is believed to have proved favourable to the preliminary operations of cultivation. The rainfall during May was abundant and well distributed in East and North Bengal, which comprise the most important jute-growing districts in Bengal; but in the districts of South-West Bengal, East Bihar and Orissa was generally short of the normal, and the want of rain was seriously felt in those districts during the latter part of the month. In the first half of June, copious showers have fallen everywhere with the general advance of the monsoon current. The season has so far proved favourable to the jute crop, except in the Central and Western districts, viz., Burdwan, Hooghly, Midnapore, Murshidabad, 24-Parganas, Khulna, Malda, Bhagalpur, Cuttack, and Balasore, where the prospects of the crop were injured by deficiency of rainfall during May; those districts are, however, comparatively unimportant as jute-producing districts.

3. Area cultivated.—The total area sown in jute during the current year appears from the district returns to be 2,228,500 acres, against 2,220,700 acres in the preceding season. The increase in area is inappreciable. The high prices of jute that have prevailed since 1891-92 have again led to an expansion of the area cultivated with jute in East and North Bengal. On the other hand, the scarcity of rain in May has led to a contraction of jute cultivation in the districts of the Burdwan, Presidency, and Orissa Divisions. In fact, owing to the lateness of the season, the entire area reserved for jute in Midnapore, Cuttack, and Bhagalpur had not been sown by the middle of June, when the district returns were prepared. In the Brahmanbaria and Sadar subdivisions of Tippera and in parts of the Sirajganj subdivision of Pabna, the high price of rice is reported to have led to a diminution of the area sown with jute, and in the Narail subdivision of Jessore, a larger area than usual having been sown with til, the area thrown under jute has fallen below the normal.

4. Character of the crop.—The prospects of the crop, as reported up to the middle of June, are favourable. In North and East Bengal, which are the chief seats of jute cultivation, the present condition of the crop gives promise of an average outturn. In eight districts only,* all of which are comparatively unimportant in point of jute cultivation, the crop is expected to be below 12 annas, or three-fourths of the average, in consequence of the injury caused by scanty rainfall during May.

* Burdwan, Hooghly, Midnapore, Khulna, Murshidabad, Bhagulpur, Cuttack, Balasore.

Taking all the jute-growing districts together, and bearing in mind the tendency on the part of local reporting officers to under-estimate the outturns of crops, it is believed that the jute crop of this year will be at least an average or 16-anna crop, provided that the season continues to be favourable during the next two months, and that the crop be not injured by early floods. Up to the middle of June the local reports indicate on the whole a slightly better crop than that of 1892.

5. Estimated exports.—As remarked above, the standing crop appears to promise a slightly better outturn than the crop of 1892. If the crop fulfils its present promise, the exports of jute, including cuttings and rejections during the jute season of 1894-95 may amount to 31 lakhs of bales, which was the quantity exported in the year 1892-93.

6. The second note on the jute crop will be published by this Department about the 1st September.

This district has been included for the first time in the jute forecast. Out of 11,000 acres under jute in this district, 10,000 acres are said to be in the Kalna sub-division alone. In the Sadar sub-division, owing to deficient rainfall, the whole area under jute could not be sown. For the same reason, the outturn will be very poor. In the Kalna sub-division the outturn will be about 8 annas for want of timely rain. In the Katwa sub-division, owing to scanty rainfall, the sowing has been late, and it is too early to make an accurate estimate of the outturn. For the want of rain the cultivation has been delayed in the Raniganj sub-division. The figures in column 5 represent what has been sown this year up to date. Want of rain at the sowing time has led to the large decrease in the area sown this year. From the Sadar sub-division it is reported that nearly 4,000 acres are likely to be sown after there has been some rain. It is therefore premature to form a correct estimate of the area likely to be sown. The area under jute crop has decreased this year owing to want of rain at sowing time. A good deal of the young plant also withered owing to continued hot and rainless weather. There has been a great deal of re-sowing which is still going on; but owing to the extreme lateness of the season, the crop is hardly far enough advanced for a satisfactory estimate to be formed. However, as it is so late, it is not likely to be a very good crop. The decrease in area is due to the want of rain at the sowing time. The outturn is expected to be an average one, if not disturbed by any unforeseen causes. Owing to want of timely rain, there has been decrease in area sown at Suthim. The outturn of the district per acre is expected to be the same as in the last year, but the area under jute is less than last year. Then it should have been returned as 10-annas.

This district has been included for the first time in the jute forecast. Out of 11,000 acres under jute in this district, 10,000 acres are said to be in the Kalna sub-division alone.

Then it should have been returned as 16-annas.

Presidency — contd.	Nadia	...	Acres, 47,000	Acres, 46,700	Acres, 47,000	Annas, 9	Annas, 14	Annas, 14	The recent rainfall has improved the prospects of the jute crop, which is expected to yield an average outturn of 11 annas this year, provided there be normal rainfall; during the current and the next month, and the rivers do not rise too rapidly.
	Jessore	...	41,500	29,500	33,600	7	14	14	The area has fallen below normal in consequence of more lands being brought under the cultivation of it in the Narail subdivision. The increase in the area over last year's is due partly to the fact that in the previous year, owing to heavy rainfall, many low lands could not be sown, while the rainfall of the current year was seasonable for sowing, and partly to increase in the price. The estimated outturn of the current year is put down as 14 annas or a little below normal. With seasonable rain the yield may be an average one.
	Murshidabad	...	30,600	29,900	21,700	13	9	9	The decrease in area sown this year in comparison with the normal and last year's area is due to want of timely rain, and the outturn will be poorer in consequence.	This district appears in the jute forecast for the first time.
	Dasajpur	...	33,500	100,500	107,500	16	15	15	High prices have led to an increase in the area sown in jute
	Rajshahi	...	104,500	100,100	105,200	13½	16	16	The high price of jute that obtained in the past year, and the high price of jute at present prevailing, induced the cultivators to extend the cultivation, and hence the increase in area. The timely rainfall at intervals at the sowing and weeding seasons stimulated the growth of the crop, and a 16-anna outturn is expected.
	Rangpur	...	278,500	288,100	286,200	13½	16	16	The increase in area sown this year over normal is due to the rise of price and seasonable rainfall, which was very favourable to the cultivation of jute. The cultivation has increased specially in the two subdivisions—Jalpaiguri and Nilphamari.

The Collector probably therefore need not have been so cautious in his estimate.

The outturn is expected to be much better than this (12 annas), if the plants do not suffer from want of rain during July and August.

10 The increase in the area sown this year as compared with the previous year is due to timely rainfall at the sowing time. 15 The decrease in area sown this year has taken place in the Sadar and Brangan-bati sub-divisions, and it is due to the fact that many jute lands have been cultivated with paddy on account of high price of rice and failure of paddy crops last year owing to high floods. Timely rainfall at the time of sowing and afterwards has done much good to the crops.

It is not explained why the out-turn of the crop should be below the average in Jalpaiguri. The two adjoining districts of Rangpur and Lunglei have both reported a 16-anna crop. Other information states that the crop in the Duars will be 16-annas. The rainfall in Dacca appears to have been very nearly normal and well distributed in April and May. It is not understood why the prospects of the crop should be so far below the average, nor why this year's area should fall short of the normal or ordinary area cultivated with jute.

This district is included for the first time in the jute forecast.

Bhagalpur	Bhagalpur			Acres. 19,600	Acres. 12,000	Acres. 13,000	Annas. 16	Annas. 8½	There has been delay in sowing owing to want of rain, and no correct forecast can be made at present. In Benka the estimate seems to be made on the land that will probably be sown if there is rain. This year a larger area has been sown at Kishanganj with jute than last year, owing to the high price at which jute was sold last year. There has been also a timely rainfall this year, and a good outturn is expected. The price of jute having considerably increased in the last year, it has been cultivated this year over a larger area. The expected outturn, however, is as bad as that of the previous year owing to scanty rainfall. Owing to prolonged drought a considerable part of the area has not been sown. In fact sowing has not been completed even now. The figures given in columns 5 and 7 are but rough estimates. It is too early to estimate the outturn of the crop, the seedlings not having yet appeared. The decrease in area and outturn is due to want of sufficient rainfall at the time of sowing and just when the seeds germinated.	This district appears in the pure forecast for the first time.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; f, fog.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS
TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
TIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATUR-DAY, THE 30TH OF JUNE 1894.

TOWARDS the end of the previous week a barometric depression had formed in the north of the Bay, which had advanced in a west-north-westerly direction, and had crossed the coast on the night of the 21st, the centre passing not very far from Balasore, and on the 23rd or the last day of that week it was to the west of Chota Nagpur. The small storm continued its north-westerly advance till its centre was not far from Allahabad, where it remained stationary for several days, certainly up to the 27th, and afterwards again moved away in a westerly direction. As usual in such cases there was a strong inrush of monsoon winds towards the depression, which flowed steadily over Bengal up till the 27th. Hence for the whole of this period weather in Bengal was of ordinary monsoon character with heavily clouded skies and with frequent and rather heavy rain. On the 28th of June, however, a slight change took place in the conditions. Pressure distribution became rather abnormal, very considerable defects being registered over the Bay and the south-eastern districts of Bengal, while excess pressure was recorded in Bihar and parts of West Bengal. Winds also fell off rapidly in force at the head of the Bay, and became irregular in direction at the southern stations of Bengal, pointing to a partial cessation or diminution in force of the monsoon current. On the 29th of June a very feeble barometric depression had formed in the north-west angle of the Bay, and winds showed a very distinct tendency to circulate cyclonically round it, though the circulation did not extend over a very large area. The rainfall bearing current by the indraught towards this feeble depression was partially prevented from reaching Bengal, and on the 29th a good many stations reported no rain. It also appeared that the feeble depression was moving in a west-north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 30th its centre was close to Balasore, and a little to the east of it. The depression had not, however, intensified to any extent, and it was a very feeble disturbance, though it was accompanied with a very distinct cyclonic circulation of winds, but at the land stations winds were decidedly feeble in force. The rainfall reported on the morning of the 30th was again rather local in Bihar and North Bengal, but with the advance of the depression towards and partially over the land, conditions on the 30th had again become favourable for general and rather heavy rain in Bengal. Practically, therefore, for almost the whole of the week, the monsoon conditions in Bengal have been strongly developed, and hence general and decidedly heavy rainfall has been received for the greater part of the period and also in all districts.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure from day to day have been small and do not call for any comment. The mean pressure for the week has been below the normal at the majority of stations by about 0.02" to 0.04", and the defects have been generally largest at the southern and south-eastern stations.

Temperature.—Owing to the heavy rainfall during the week the mean average temperature has been below the normal, the defect for the whole of Bengal equalling about 0.8°, while in Assam the defect has been 0.5°. The largest defects in Bengal have been equal to about two degrees in Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

Rainfall has been in considerable excess in South-West, North and East Bengal and in Bihar, and about normal in amount in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The average falls have equalled nearly seven inches in North Bengal, between four and five inches in East Bengal and Bihar, about three and a half inches in Orissa, and between two and three inches in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur. Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 121 per cent., North Bengal 165 per cent., East Bengal 131 per cent., Bihar 196 per cent., Orissa 106 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 102 per cent. Considering each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 137 per cent.

In Assam, Dhubri has received 8.41 inches of rain during the week, Silchar 8.08 inches, and Sibsagar 2.79 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 30th of June 1894:—

RULES FOR GRANTS-IN-AID TO COLLEGES AND SCHOOLS IN BENGAL.

1. A grant from Provincial revenues is assigned annually by Government to be expended in grants-in-aid to schools not under Government management, provided they fulfil the conditions prescribed in the following rules.

2. The grant is distributed by the Director of Public Instruction, on the recommendation of the Circle Inspector, to schools which are certified to be eligible under these rules, reference being had to the requirements of each locality as compared with others, and to the funds disposable.

3. Any school to which aid is given, together with all its accounts, books and other records, shall at all times be open to inspection and examination by any officer appointed by the Government for the purpose, and to this end the records and accounts shall be placed in such custody that they shall be always accessible on the visit of any inspecting officer. Such inspection and examination shall have no reference to religious instruction, but only to secular education.

4. Inspecting officers will interfere as little as possible with the local management of schools, but are employed to see that the instruction is efficient, and that the conditions on which the grants were made are fulfilled; and aid will be withdrawn from any school in which such conditions are not fulfilled.

5. Grants are given on the principle of strict religious neutrality, and no preference will be shown to any school on the ground that any particular religious doctrines are taught or not taught therein.

6. Grants-in-aid will be made to such colleges and schools only (with the exception of training schools, girls' schools, night schools for adults, and schools for aborigines and low castes) as require some fee, however small, from all their scholars. Exemption from this rule may be allowed in exceptional cases by the Director of Public Instruction.

10. An application for a grant is made either directly to the Circle Inspector or to the District Deputy Inspector, who forwards it with his remarks to the Inspector. The Inspector, after taking the opinion of the Magistrate upon his proposals, forwards the application to the Director for sanction. If the Magistrate and the Inspector differ, the decision rests with the Director.

11. Grants shall not exceed in amount the sums to be expended from private sources, except in special cases, under special orders of Government. Municipal contributions will be reckoned for this purpose as receipts from public sources.

12. Aided places of instruction are divided into the following classes:—

Colleges.—In which students who have passed the University Entrance Examination are educated in the University Course or any part of it.

High Schools.—In which students are educated up to the standard of the Entrance Examination.

Middle Schools.—In which the scholars are educated up to the Middle English or Middle Vernacular Scholarship standard.

Primary Schools.—In which the scholars are educated up to the Upper or Lower Primary Scholarship standard.

Girls' Schools.—Including agencies for zanana instruction.

Training Schools.—For the training of masters and mistresses.

Special Schools.—For instruction in special subjects.

Grants are also given in certain cases in aid of boarding establishments.

13. Grants are of two kinds,—annual grants and special grants.

ANNUAL GRANTS.

14. For colleges the grants shall not exceed one-half of the income guaranteed from private sources, and in Calcutta they shall not exceed one-third of such income.

15. For high schools the grants shall not exceed one-half of the income guaranteed from private sources, except in the districts of—

Birbhum,	Chittagong,
Dinajpur,	Tippera,
Rangpur,	Noakhali,
Bogra,	The Patna Division,
Darjeeling,	„ Bhagalpur „
Jalpaiguri,	„ Orissa „
Mymensingh,	„ Chota Nagpur „
The island of Dakhin Shahbazpur	and the thanas of Khatra, Raipur, in which the grants may equal two-thirds of the income so guaranteed.

16. For middle schools, in which the expenditure is more than Rs. 40 a month, the grants shall not exceed two-thirds of the income guaranteed from private sources, except in the districts mentioned in the last rule, in which the grants may equal the income so guaranteed.

17. For primary schools, and for middle schools in which the expenditure does not exceed Rs. 40 a month, as well as for girls' schools, training schools, and special schools, the grant shall not exceed a sum equal to the full amount of the income guaranteed.

18. The amounts above laid down are maximum amounts, and it must be understood that the maximum grant will not in all cases, and as a matter of course, be sanctioned.

19. Grants will be sanctioned ordinarily for a term of three years; but the Inspector may at any time during its currency recommend the revision of any grant. A grant should ordinarily be reduced on renewal, when this can be done without serious loss of efficiency. Notice of any proposed reduction shall in all cases be given to the managers, who shall be allowed an opportunity of stating any objection that they may have to the reduction.

20. When a grant is sanctioned, the managers shall sign an agreement on stamped paper, to the effect that they will conduct the school in accordance with the conditions of the grant.

21. The sanction of a grant is conveyed in the following form* :—

Office Memorandum of the Director of Public Instruction.

(1) A grant of Rs. _____ a month is sanctioned from the _____ 189 for the school at _____ in the district of _____, on the following conditions :—

(a) That Rs. _____ a month at least be regularly contributed from private sources.

(b) That the following scale of expenditure be maintained, subject to any alteration that may be sanctioned by the Inspector :—

				Rs. A. P.
Head-master
Second do.
Third do.
Servants	} In the case of girls' schools only.
Contingencies

(2) The grant is payable every month.

(3) The monthly bill (in Form D annexed) must be sent to the Inspector for countersignature, and must be accompanied by an account (in Form B) of the actual receipts and disbursements for the month preceding that for which the bill is drawn.

After countersignature the bill will be paid at the _____ treasury.

(4) The monthly bill and the certificate must be signed by the Secretary of the school.

(5) The bill is countersigned on the distinct understanding that the salaries and other charges certified by the Secretary to have been paid have actually been paid.

(6) Salaries for service in any month become due on the first day of the following month.

(7) The appointment and dismissal of every teacher shall be notified to the Department. No appointment shall be confirmed until it has received the sanction of the Department; and the Department shall have power to enquire into any case of the dismissal of a teacher.

(8) The grant is liable to be reduced or withdrawn if the payment of any teacher's salary is delayed for more than two months after it has become due.

(9) The grant is liable to be reduced or withdrawn if the school is unfavourably reported on as regards the attendance or proficiency of the scholars.

(10) The grant is liable to be reduced or withdrawn if the managers keep their accounts in a negligent and untrustworthy manner, or if they send up incorrect accounts, or if they fail to transmit punctually the periodical returns required by the Department, or if the school-house is unfit for the purposes of the school or is untidy or dirty, or if the Department is otherwise dissatisfied with the management of the school.

* In the case of colleges the form is modified.

(11) The grant is liable to be reduced or withdrawn if the teachers are inefficient, or if they are absent from duty, otherwise than in accordance with the rules of the Department, or if they keep the school registers in a negligent or untrustworthy manner.

(12) Holidays are not to exceed 60 days in the year, exclusive of Sundays, except under peculiar circumstances and with the sanction of the Inspector.

(13) Every new election to the Committee of Management must be notified to the Inspector under the signatures of the Secretary and of the member or members elected.

(14) Every change of Secretary must be notified to the Inspector under the signatures of the new Secretary and the members of the Committee of Management.

(15) All receipts, from whatever sources or for whatever purposes collected, must be entered in the account book of the school, which shall be open to inspection and examination by any officer appointed by Government for that purpose.

(16) No part of the previous balance of the school shall be spent without the sanction of the Inspector, except for payment of the sanctioned establishment, in order to make up any deficit in the private contributions in any particular month.

(17) No new building shall be constructed for the school until the plan and estimates have been approved by the Inspector.

(18) Government may claim a fair share of any balance at the credit of a school at the time of its abolition, as well as of the sale proceeds of any school-house or furniture towards the erection or purchase of which a grant may have been made by Government.

SPECIAL GRANTS.

22. Grants may be given to managers of schools in aid—

- (a) of erecting, enlarging, or furnishing school buildings;
- (b) of executing extensive repairs;
- (c) in special cases, of paying off debts incurred in erecting or enlarging school buildings.

NOTE (1).—Expenditure in the purchase of buildings may be treated as expenditure in the erection of buildings.

NOTE (2).—The sum to be allotted annually for building grants to schools will be fixed provisionally for a term of years. The amount will be notified. It will not in ordinary circumstances be reduced, though it may be increased, for any year during that term.

NOTE (3).—Every application for a grant must be submitted to the department not later than the 31st December, if the grant is to be admissible for sanction during the following financial year. If found to be in accordance with the rules, and in other respects deserving of support, it will be included in the list of 'approved applications.' If not so included, the reasons shall be notified to the managers.

NOTE (4).—The total sum allotted for the year will be divided between schools for different sections of the community (Europeans, Hindus, Muhammadans, Native Christians, &c.), in some proportion to the requirements of each community, as indicated by the amount of the 'approved applications' received from each; regard being also paid to preferential claims as explained in Note (6).

Grants not required by one section of the community may, towards the close of the year, be re-appropriated to meet the wants of another section.

NOTE (5).—When an approved application is sanctioned, the managers shall be informed whether the grant will be payable in full from the allotment for the year, or if not, in what years and by what instalments.

NOTE (6).—In selecting approved applications for sanction, those projects that involve the education or boarding of an increased number of pupils, will ordinarily be preferred to those that merely seek to improve the accommodation for existing pupils.

NOTE (7).—In the case of an application for a repair grant under this rule (b), the managers will be required to show that the necessity for such a grant has not arisen from the neglect of current repairs in previous years.

23. Except in the case provided in the foregoing rule, no grant shall be made in consideration of former expenditure on school buildings.

24. In general, the proportion of the Government contribution made under rule 22 shall not exceed the proportion laid down in rules 14 to 17 for a school of the same class.

NOTE.—The sum of Rs. 10,000 (ten thousand) is fixed as ordinarily the maximum grant for any undertaking or project.

25. Before a building grant is sanctioned, the site, plans, estimates, specifications, title and trust deed must be approved by the Director of Public Instruction. If the school receive no monthly grant, the managers must also satisfy the Department that it is likely to be maintained in efficiency, and that it will be open to inspection.

26. The trust deed must declare the building to be granted in trust for school purposes only. It must also provide for the legal ownership of the premises, for the proper maintenance of the building, and for the inspection and management of the school.

NOTE.—This rule does not preclude the managers from using the building for other purposes when not required for the purposes of the school.

27. No grant is finally sanctioned until a certificate is received from the managers setting forth that the funds in their hands will, when added to the grant, be sufficient to meet all claims and to close the account.

28. Advances may be made from time to time out of the sanctioned grant on receipt of a report from the Public Works Department that the work is proceeding satisfactorily.

29. The grant is not paid in full until—

- (1) a report is received from the Public Works Department or other sufficient authority that the building is satisfactorily completed;
- (2) the trust deed is duly registered, and a copy lodged with the Department.

30. Loans may also be made to managers of schools for the erection of school buildings. The amount of such loan shall generally be limited to the amount of any grant claimable under rule 24. The building shall be mortgaged to the Government as a guarantee for the repayment of the loan, and a term shall be fixed within which the loan is to be repaid. Interest at a rate not exceeding 4½ per cent. may, if necessary, be charged.

NOTIFICATION.—No. 2382.

The 9th July 1894.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following additions to, and alterations in, the Code of Regulations for European Schools in Bengal :—

(1) For article 33 substitute—

“ Article 33.—In substitution of the grants which may be drawn under the preceding articles of this section and under all the articles of the two following sections of this chapter, except article 38, grants independent of examination results may be given to schools working in conformity with the rules of this Code, conditionally upon the Inspector certifying to the continued efficiency of such schools. Except in the case of special grants (the amount, and the time and manner of payment of which will be determined by the Local Government for each particular case), grants given under this article are to be annual, to be payable at a fixed date in each year, and to be determined in amount by rules specially framed by the Local Government for that purpose.”

Note—

(a) Schools receiving grants-in-aid under article 33 of the Code shall be classified by the Department as primary, middle, or high, after consideration of—

- (1) The standard [primary, middle, or high—as determined by the requirements of the primary scholarship, middle scholarship, and high-school (or Entrance) examination respectively] up to which there is a real, and likely to be a permanent, demand for instruction in the school.
- (2) The competence of the school staff to teach the more advanced work and its sufficiency for the number of classes in the school.

- (b) Scholars in the various schools shall be arranged in groups or divisions for grant purposes as follows:—

In any school the scholars below Standard I shall form the Infant Division of that school; scholars studying in Standards I to IV shall form the Primary Division; scholars studying in Standards V to VII shall form the Middle Division; scholars studying beyond Standard VII for the High-School Examination, or such other examination as may be specially recognised for this purpose by the Department, shall form the High Division.

- (c) Schools ranked as primary shall, ordinarily, only be entitled to teach scholars in the infant and primary divisions; schools ranked as middle shall, ordinarily, only be entitled to teach scholars in the infant, primary, and middle divisions; schools ranked as high shall be entitled to teach scholars in the infant, primary, middle, and high divisions.

If under special circumstances, a primary or middle school should be permitted to teach one or more scholars belonging to a higher division than the rank of the school would otherwise warrant, such scholar or scholars shall count, for grant purposes, as belonging to the highest division in which, by the rank of the school, scholars are ordinarily entitled to be taught.

- (d) Grants-in-aid may be of three kinds:—

- (1) Ordinary grants, given to every school.
- (2) Free-scholar grants, given to those schools only into which free scholars are admitted.
- (3) Special grants, only given under exceptional circumstances to those schools which, in the opinion of Government, require such exceptional help.

- (e) The ordinary and free-scholar grants to be paid annually for the year beginning on the 1st of April; to be due in advance on the 1st of April of each such year; and to be calculated, according to the scales given below, upon attendances made during the calendar year (January to December) last completed. Special grants to be of whatever amount, and payable at whatever time and in whatever manner, may appear to Government to best meet the circumstances of each particular case.

- (f) The following are the scales for calculating ordinary and free-scholar grants:—

Scale A.

(For the ordinary grant to Infant Divisions in Day Schools.)

Rupees 20	for each of the first	ten scholars in average attendance.
„ 15	ditto	second „ ditto ditto.
„ 10	ditto	remaining ditto ditto.

Scale B.

(For the ordinary grant to Primary Divisions in Day Schools.)

Rupees 25	for each of the first	twenty scholars in average attendance.
„ 20	ditto	second „ ditto ditto.
„ 15	ditto	remaining ditto ditto.

Scale C.

(For the ordinary grant to Middle Divisions in Day Schools.)

Rupees 40	for each of the first	twenty scholars in average attendance.
„ 30	ditto	second „ ditto ditto.
„ 20	ditto	remaining ditto ditto.

Scale D.

(For the ordinary grant to High Divisions in Day Schools.)

Rupees 120	for each of the first	five scholars in average attendance.
„ 90	ditto	second „ ditto ditto.
„ 50	ditto	remaining ditto ditto.

Scale E.

(For the free-scholar grant to Day Schools.)

Rupees 2	for each free day-scholar in average attendance.
„ 8	ditto boarding-scholar in average attendance.

Scale F.

(For grants to Night Schools.)

Rupees 12	for each of the first twenty scholars in average attendance.
„ 8	ditto remaining ditto ditto.

- (g) The Inspector will at each visit paid to a school carefully note, and if necessary correct, the classification of the scholars.
- (h) All Government aid will be withdrawn from any school which, after due warning, shall continue to be inefficient."

2. The existing note to article 91 will be note (1).

The following will be added:—

Note (2).—The sum to be allotted annually for building grants to schools will be fixed provisionally for a term of years. The amount will be notified. It will not in ordinary circumstances be reduced, though it may be increased, for any year during that term.

Note (3).—Every application for a grant must be submitted to the Department not later than the 31st December, if the grant is to be admissible for sanction during the following financial year. If found to be in accordance with the rules and in other respects deserving of support, it will be included in the list of 'approved applications.' If not so included, the reasons shall be notified to the managers.

Note (4).—The total sum allotted for the year will be divided between schools for different sections of the community (Europeans, Hindus, Muhammadans, Native Christians, &c.), in some proportion to the requirements of each community, as indicated by the amount of the 'approved applications' received from each; regard being also paid to preferential claims as explained in Note (6).

Grants not required by one section of the community may, towards the close of the year, be re-appropriated to meet the wants of another section.

Note (5).—When an approved application is sanctioned, the managers shall be informed whether the grant will be payable in full from the allotment for the year, or if not, in what years and by what instalments.

Note (6).—In selecting approved applications for sanction, those projects that involve the education or boarding of an increased number of pupils will ordinarily be preferred to those that merely seek to improve the accommodation for existing pupils.

Note (7).—In the case of an application for a repair grant under this article (b), the managers will be required to show that the necessity for such a grant has not arisen from the neglect of current repairs in previous years."

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892.

THE Council met at the Council Chamber on Saturday, the 7th July, 1894.

Present:

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES ALFRED ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES PAUL, K.C.I.E., Advocate-General.

THE ALUM FESTIVAL.

The Hon'ble Mr. W. C. BONNERJEE asked—

Whether the Government will reconsider the decision embodied in its letter No. 788J., dated 6th February, 1894, addressed to the Commissioner of the Patna Division, disallowing the prayer of the Shias of Gaya to carry an alam with mashk and tir in their processions and allow them to carry these emblems in the next Muharram and Chehloom processions, directing the local officers to take proper safeguards for the preservation of the peace?

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON replied :—

"In the town of Gaya the Shias number only 150 to 200 souls, while the number of Sunnis is about 10,000. The Sunni community entertain a deep-rooted aversion from the use of symbols in any form, and especially to the exhibition of the symbols of the mashk and tir with the alam in the Muharram procession. It is unnecessary to consider the grounds of this aversion: it exists, and the fact remains that in 1882, when the procession with these emblems was permitted, a disturbance took place which was only quelled by the interference of a large body of police. Since that year the executive authorities in the exercise of their legal powers have prohibited the carrying of these emblems in public procession, and this prohibition has been annually enforced. During the past two or three years there has been an active agitation on the part of the Shias to rescind the prohibition, and the whole subject has been fully reported on by the local officers and has been carefully considered by Government. The final orders of the Lieutenant-Governor were contained in my letter No. 798J., dated 6th February, 1894, to the address of the Commissioner of Patna, in which it was laid down that no change in the established procedure could be allowed in Gaya or elsewhere. The Lieutenant-Governor is convinced that the principle of withstanding innovations must be maintained. Moreover, the emblems, if allowed at all, would have (as is admitted in the terms of the Hon'ble Member's question) to be conducted under a special guard appointed for the purpose. This the Lieutenant-Governor cannot permit, and the Government adheres to the principle laid down in my letter quoted that no community has a right to carry out religious observances in public which are not sanctioned by continuous usage, which offend another community, and which would lead to riot if not protected by the strong arm of the police.

"For these reasons the Lieutenant-Governor declines to reconsider the orders prohibiting the carrying of these emblems in public procession in the town of Gaya."

EXCHANGE COMPENSATION ALLOWANCE TO EURASIAN CLERKS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state if it is a fact, as stated in one of the newspapers, that in the returns which are prepared from time to time showing the respective number of Europeans and Natives in Government service, it is the usual practice to include Eurasian clerks under the head of "Natives?" Whether, as stated in the same newspaper, among the Eurasian clerks who are shown as "Natives" in the returns referred to above, there are not some who have been drawing exchange compensation allowance?

The Hon'ble Mr. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor has not seen the newspaper statement to which the Hon'ble Member alludes, and cannot therefore say to what returns reference is made; no returns answering to the description given are prepared by or under the orders of the Government of Bengal. The figures given by the Chief Secretary in reply to a question by the Hon'ble Member on the 9th February last referred only to superior officers, and did not include clerks. The Hon'ble Member may, however, rest assured that no official is granted exchange compensation allowance who has not established the fact that he has a European domicile."

RESETTLEMENT OF LAND REVENUE AND AMENDMENT OF BENGAL TENANCY ACT, VIII OF 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. BUCKLAND said:—"It will be in the recollection of the Council that on the 28th of April last I introduced into Council a little Bill to remove doubts which have arisen in connection with the resettlement of land revenue in temporarily-settled areas, and to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885. On that occasion I said that nothing further would be done at that moment than to read the Bill in Council and to circulate it for opinion, and that later on it might be necessary to appoint a Select Committee to deal with any opinions and criticisms which might be received, and to consider any suggestions which might be made. The Bill was read without discussion, but a number of reports have since been received from Associations and others interested in the measure, and it is now my duty to refer the Bill to a Select Committee for the consideration of those reports. I therefore move that the Bill to remove doubts which have arisen in connection with the resettlement of land revenue in temporarily-settled areas, and to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. BOURDILLON, WILKINS and GHOSE, the Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR, and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said:—"There is no other business before the Council to-day, but I may mention now that I hope the members of the Select Committee will be able to arrange to meet at a very early date for the purpose of considering the Bill. As far as I am aware, the Bill contains no contentious provisions or matters to which objection is likely to be taken on principle. The only question, as far as I know, which is likely to arise would be possible emendations of language, which may be suggested by the Legislative Department or by our legal experts in Council. In that case, if our anticipations are fulfilled, I hope the Report of the Select Committee will be at once laid before the Council, and that the Council will meet again on Saturday next to consider and pass the Bill. If no objection is taken to the Bill, I presume it will be convenient for hon'ble members to pass this Bill at once next Saturday, and in that case I do not think it will be necessary to summon the Council again for any further business during this summer session."

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 14th instant.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore .003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0.5 higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0.6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS
TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
TIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATUR-
DAY, THE 7TH OF JULY 1894.

At the close of the previous week a very feeble barometric depression had formed in the north of the Bay, and on Saturday, the 23rd, or the last day of that week, it had advanced into the north-west angle and its centre was close to Balasore, and a little to the east of it. With the advance of the small depression monsoon winds were again beginning to blow freely over the Province, and hence general rain was being received. On the 1st of July, or the first day of the week under review, the depression had to a great extent advanced inland, while it remained extremely feeble, and the lowest pressure was reported at Calcutta, while there was also a badly defined cyclonic circulation of winds over South-West Bengal. On the 2nd the lowest pressure was reported from Rampur-Boalia, and round this as a centre winds were again circulating feebly in a cyclonic form, but there was scarcely sufficient evidence to say that any barometric depression existed over this area on this day. On the 3rd again pressure was relatively low over the east of Bihar and part of North Bengal, and a moderate fall of pressure had occurred, while winds showed a tendency to circulate round a centre probably near Malda, so that a very feeble, but not very definite, barometric depression appears to have existed over the east of Bihar on this day. On the 4th the lowest pressures were reported at Patna and Arrah, where pressure was nearly a tenth of an inch in defect, and the feeble depression had apparently moved in a west-north-westerly direction, and hence pressure was falling in the western districts, while it was rising moderately to rapidly at the central and eastern stations. The circulation of winds accompanying the feeble depression was, however, by no means definite. On the 5th the feeble low pressure area had apparently passed away from the Province, and pressure was rising briskly at all stations, though it was still in slight defect in the west and centre of the Province. No true circulation of winds, however, was recorded on this day. On the 6th a further slow increase of pressure occurred, and pressure became in slight excess in all districts, while on the 7th pressure had again generally increased, though a fall was commencing at the western stations, but still pressure was in excess in practically all districts. Hence during the last two days of the week the depression had quite disappeared, and conditions as to pressure were becoming decidedly less favourable for the free advance of the monsoon winds over the Province, and hence less favourable also for heavy rainfall.

It will therefore be seen that at the beginning of the week a feeble barometric depression passed into South-West Bengal, where apparently it filled up, and that two or three days later another very feeble depression formed more in the centre of the Province. Hence with the monsoon current brought up by these depressions and by the indraught towards them, a rather strong monsoon has been blowing over Bengal almost up to the close of the week, and conditions have again been very favourable for rainfall. Indeed, in all divisions except Orissa, the falls for the week have been largely in excess—the falls in such divisions as South-West Bengal, East Bengal, and Chota Nagpur being about double as large as usual.

Pressure.—The variations of the average pressure for the week from the normal have not been large, and at all stations except one or two in Orissa defects have been recorded. The usual defects range from 0.015" to 0.035", and they have been usually largest at the south-western and central stations. In Assam the average defect has been 0.025".

Temperature has been comparatively low throughout the week, and for the whole of Bengal a defect of practically one degree has been registered. In Assam the average defect in the mean temperature has equalled 0.9°.

Rainfall.—The heavy average fall of nearly eight inches has been reported from East Bengal, while falls of between five and six inches have been recorded in South-West and North Bengal and Chota Nagpur. In Bihar the falls have averaged nearly four inches, while the falls have been comparatively scanty in Orissa, where the average amount of only 1.90 inches has been registered. Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 200 per cent., North Bengal 137 per cent., East Bengal 217 per cent., Bihar 118 per cent., Orissa 79 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 190 per cent. Considering each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 157 per cent.

In Assam, Dhubri has received 2.55 inches of rain during the week, Silchar 7.14 inches, and Sibsagar 1.65 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 7th of July 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

By order of the High Court,

T. W. RICHARDSON,
Offg. Registrar.

Supplementary Rules issued under Rule No. 1, dated the 1st February 1893, regarding the destruction of records of Civil suits and proceedings decided before 1st January 1891.

1. These rules must be read as supplementing and modifying the rules in force before the rules of 1890 came into operation in respect of the destruction of records of Civil suits and cases decided before 1st January 1891. The object of the rules is to authorise the destruction of certain records or portions of records which, under the old rules, were to be preserved for ever.

2. Under the old rules the papers in the trial record had to be sorted and separated into two distinct nuthees, of which one was to be preserved for ever and the other destroyed after a certain period, having regard to the nature of the case or proceeding. These rules will deal first (A) with those records that have been so re-arranged and separated; and secondly (B) with those records that have not yet been sorted.

(A) Records that have been sorted and re-arranged under the old rules.

3. In respect of these records there will be no fresh assortment or re-arrangement of the papers.

4. The portion of the trial record that has been separated for preservation in perpetuity under the old rules will be preserved for ever in the following classes of suits and cases:—

- (a) Suits for or affecting immoveable property, including suits for foreclosure, redemption or sale.
- (b) Suits in respect of the succession to an office, or to establish or set aside an adoption, or otherwise determine the status of an individual.
- (c) Suits relating to public trusts, charities or endowments.
- (d) Suits between landlord and tenant to determine the rate of rent, or in which a question of right to enhance or vary the rent of a tenant or any question relating to a title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto is in issue.
- (e) Cases under section 158 of Act VIII of 1885, to determine the incidents of a tenancy.
- (f) Contested and uncontested suits and cases for probate and letters of administration and for the revocation of the same.
- (g) Suits and proceedings under the Indian Succession Act and Hindu Wills Act.
- (h) Cases under the Land Acquisition Act, Part IV.

5. The portion of the trial record that has been separated for preservation in perpetuity under the old rules may be destroyed on the expiration of twenty-five years from the date of the final decree or order (which in cases appealed will be that of the Appellate Court) in the following classes of suits and cases:—

- (i) Suits for rent under the law of landlord and tenant for the time being in force, which do not come under clause (d).
- (j) Cases under Act XL of 1858 and Act IX of 1861, relating to the guardianship of minors and the administration of their property.
- (k) Cases under Act XXXV of 1858 relating to the guardianship of lunatics and the care of their estates.

6. The portion of the trial record that has been separated for preservation in perpetuity under the old rules may be destroyed on the expiration of twelve years from the date of the final decree or order (which in cases appealed will be that of the Appellate Court) in the following classes of suits and cases:—

- (l) All suits which are not provided for by rules 4 and 5 of these rules.
- (m) Cases under Act XIX of 1841.
 - „ Act XXVII of 1860 (Collection of Debts).
 - „ Act X of 1870 (Land Acquisition Act), Part III.
 - „ Act XVIII of 1879 (Legal Practitioners' Act).
 - „ Act VIII of 1885 (Bengal Tenancy Act), sections 91 to 93.
 - „ Civil Procedure Code for a declaration of insolvency.
 - „ Civil Procedure Code to transfer a decree when no application for execution is pending.
 - „ Regulation V of 1799, section 7, regarding the property of intestates in which a claimant appears.

Applications to sue in formâ pauperis, if rejected.

7. Proceedings in execution of decree.—The portion of the execution record separated for preservation under the old rules will be preserved for ever, destroyed after 25 years, or destroyed after 12 years, according as the suits or cases out of which they arise fall under Rules 4, 5 or 6 of these rules.

8. Records of Appellate Courts.—The preservation or destruction of the records of the Appellate Courts will be regulated by the rules laid down above in respect of the records of original suits and cases.

(B) Records that have not yet been sorted and re-arranged under the old rules.

9. Records of suits and cases falling under clauses (l) and (m) in respect of which 12 years have elapsed since the date of the final decree or order (which in cases appealed will be that of the Appellate Court) may be destroyed at once without being sorted with the exception of documents filed by the parties which under the old rules were to be removed from the trial record to be separately dealt with.

10. Records of suits and cases falling under clauses (i), (j) and (k) in respect of which 25 years have elapsed since the date of the final decree or order (which in cases appealed will be that of the Appellate Court) may be destroyed at once without being sorted, with the exception of documents filed by the parties which under the old rules were to be removed from the trial record to be separately dealt with.

11. All other records that have not yet been sorted must be sorted and re-arranged under the old rules, and will then be dealt with under those rules read with these supplementary rules.

12. Records of which the immediate destruction is authorised by these rules may be destroyed at once on these rules coming into force; and thereafter the records liable to destruction under these rules shall be destroyed at intervals of three years until the whole of the records of suits and cases decided before 1st January 1891, which are liable to destruction have been destroyed.

Destruction of Documents.

13. Documents filed in cases the records of which are liable to destruction under these rules may be destroyed after the expiration of six months from the date of publication of a general notice intimating that unless such documents are taken back within three months they will be destroyed. Such notice shall specify the class of suit or proceeding in which the documents were filed and the year in which the case was decided, and shall be published by affixing a copy at the Court-house of the District Judge and of every Subordinate Judge and Munsif in the district.

WATER-WORKS AT HOWRAH.

The Hon'ble Mr. GHOSE asked—

1. Whether the site of the intake of the proposed Howrah Water-Works is not within a distance of about 60 yards from a largely-frequented public ghât, and whether, within a distance of 400 yards from the intake, there are not several other ghâts, and whether it is the fact that within that distance from the intake some 3,000 coolies employed in the India Mill are in the habit of bathing daily?

2. Whether for three miles above the proposed intake the shore is not lined with a succession of bathing ghâts at which the inhabitants of the towns of Baidyabati, Sheorapholi, Chattra, and Serampore, amounting to 30,000 persons or thereabouts, bathe daily, and whether it is the fact that there are no public ghâts for a considerable distance above and below the intake of the Calcutta Water-Works at Fulta?

3. Whether complaints as to the insanitary state of the foreshore within 400 yards of the intake have been recently made to the Serampore Municipality; and whether, if cholera breaks out among the persons bathing, there is not a reasonable probability of the germs being transmitted to Howrah; and whether it is the fact that Dr. Simpson, the Health Officer of the Calcutta Corporation, has advised against the scheme on sanitary grounds, and suggested a site higher up the river, and whether the Government proposes to take any, and if so what, steps in the matter?

The Hon'ble Mr. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor is informed that there is a largely-frequented bathing ghât about 60 yards above the intake of the proposed Water-Works at Serampore, and that there are three or four other ghâts within some 400 yards of the spot.

"The facts stated in the second paragraph of the Hon'ble Member's question are substantially correct; but although it is believed that there are no bathing ghâts in the immediate vicinity of the Fulta Water-Works, there are many of them within three miles above and below the intake at that place.

"As regards the third question, it has been ascertained that an objection was made in January last by the Civil Medical Officer of Serampore to the effect that the river bank was being polluted: the nuisance was immediately put a stop to. Government is not aware of any other complaints of this character. Whether cholera is likely to be conveyed from Serampore to Howrah through the Water-Works, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot pretend to say. It is not the fact that the Health Officer of Calcutta has advised on sanitary grounds against the scheme of an intake at Serampore, or suggested a site higher up the river.

"The Government does not propose to interfere with the arrangements already in progress. I may inform the Hon'ble Member that the mouth of the pipe through which the water is drawn is 100 feet away from the river bank and 10 feet below the surface at low water. The water at this point has been analysed and shown to be a sufficiently good potable water, and it will pass through settling and filtering tanks before transmission to Howrah. Lastly, if Serampore were abandoned as the site of the water-works, they would have to be moved some six miles up the river, and the additional cost would be fatal to the whole project."

DACOITY AT KHURDA.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to the disturbed state of the villages lying within the jurisdiction of the Khurda thana in the sub-division of Barrackpore, to the case of dacoity at Patali, and to the cases of theft and burglary which are of frequent occurrence in the neighbourhood?

Whether any representations have been made in this connection to the District Magistrate, and what action, if any, has been taken upon those representations?

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON replied:—

"On receipt of the Hon'ble Member's question the Lieutenant-Governor caused enquiries to be made and has ascertained that a dacoity occurred last month at Patali, and is still under enquiry. There has been a slight increase in the number of thefts and burglaries reported in the Khurda thana during the first six months of the current year, the number being 41 against 35 during the corresponding period of 1893.

“The District Magistrate has received various representations on this subject, and proposals for the improvement of police arrangements in Khurda are under his consideration. In the meantime, extra constables have been deputed to that thana for patrol duty.”

MUHARRAM PROCESSION AT CALCUTTA.

The Hon'ble Mr. GHOSE asked—

Whether on Monday last, the 9th instant, between 9 and 10 p.m., some of the streets of Calcutta, including Circular Road, from the corner of Harrison Road to the junction of Theatre Road, were not occupied by successive groups of Muharram akharas, not being processions passing along the streets, but stationary crowds occupying the entire width of the road and forming a ring, in the centre of which performances were going on with lathies and lighted torches, entirely blocking the traffic to the great inconvenience of passengers and causing imminent danger to persons driving along the road?

Whether a certain number of constables were in attendance upon each of these akharas without taking any steps to make them pass on, and whether the permission given by the Police authorities referred only to processions passing along the road, or whether such permission actually sanctioned the occupation of the road at various points by the different akharas for the purpose of the said performance?

Whether, having regard to the fact that a sufficient number of suitable places, such as squares and waste lands besides the maidan, are available for the purpose of such performances, the Government will consider the desirability of prohibiting such performances taking place in the public thoroughfares?

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON replied:—

“By notification dated the 5th July, 1894, issued under the provisions of section 62 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 39 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866, the Commissioner of Police granted licenses for processions with music on account of the celebration of the Muharram in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta on Monday, the 9th instant, between the hours of 9 p.m. and 10 p.m. The akharas referred to by the Hon'ble Member formed part of the procession and passed along the routes prescribed. Such processions are allowed to halt at intervals for the purpose of mimic warfare. About 450 licenses have been issued to take out processions during the present Muharram.

“The practice is to tell off a certain number of policemen to accompany each akhara, but the orders issued to the Police forbid interference except to maintain order and to ensure that the route and hours prescribed are duly observed.

“It has been established by long custom that these processions shall proceed by certain routes to enable them to visit shrines and other places held in veneration. It would not be possible therefore to restrict such processions to squares and waste lands or to the maidan. The above usage applies not only to Muharram processions, but to other assemblies and processions, which take place annually in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, and on such occasions the temporary obstruction of ordinary traffic in certain public thoroughfares is unavoidable: but intimation is always given to the public by notifications previously issued.”

RE-SETTLEMENT OF LAND REVENUE AND AMENDMENT OF BENGAL TENANCY ACT, VIII OF 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. BUCKLAND, in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to remove doubts which have arisen in connection with the re-settlement of land revenue in temporarily-settled areas, and to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, said:—“A very few words of explanation are needed. I may say at once that the meeting of the Select Committee appointed at our last sitting was not a long one, but we discussed the Bill thoroughly, and removed what might have been considered to be the only contentious matter. I think I may say that the Bill as it now stands is free from any possible objection. We have made a few verbal amendments with the intention of making the object of the Bill more clear. In the preamble we have introduced some words so as to make it plain that the Bill applies to Government estates, as the expression 'temporarily-settled areas' has hitherto been held, in Bengal Revenue literature, as not necessarily including Government estates. There is really no alteration of principle by the introduction of these words. In the second section we have made a slight alteration in the language so as to show that new rents settled shall not take effect until the date upon which the new settlement of land revenue comes into force. The change was made to meet a criticism offered by one of the Associations to whom the Bill was sent for the favour of their opinion. A material change has been made in what now stands as the second proviso in the second section of the Bill. The Bill as originally presented to the Council on the 28th April last contained a proviso that Government might direct a revision of rents under certain circumstances. The words 'under certain circumstances' did not appear; but, as I explained at the time, the intention was that Government could apply for revision of rents when mistakes had been made, either by fixing notoriously low rents or oppressively high rents, by inexperienced Settlement Officers. It came to the notice of Government that, by some extraordinary misconception, objection was taken to this proviso, and at the instance of Government the Select Committee have, on my suggestion, withdrawn the words which stood in the original Bill. The object of the Government may be stated briefly to have been as follows. It was intended that power should be given to the Government to direct a revision of rents when mistakes had been made, either by fixing notoriously low or oppressively high rents by subordinate officers came to light after the right of appeal had lapsed. It was intended by these means to rectify the mistakes of inexperienced officers, and the phrase used that such revision should be fair and equitable was intended to imply the exercise of judicial procedure on the part of the revising Revenue Officer. There was never any intention on the part of Government to interfere by the exercise of final executive authority to revise rents which had been settled judicially. But as this strange misunderstanding has come to light, these words have been withdrawn. The intention of Government is now that such mistakes shall not be allowed to occur; by a careful selection of Settlement Officers, and their Assistants, by adequate supervision of the Settlement Officer over his subordinates, and by exercise of the right of appeal within the 30 days allowed, it is hoped to obviate the necessity for any such provision. It is quite possible that it may be hereafter found necessary to make some such provision for the rectification of mistakes. The result will be for the present that when mistakes have been made there will be no legal power for getting rents reduced or otherwise altered, but the omission of these few words removes, as I have said, all contentious matter from the Bill. The intention of the Government, that the revision of rents shall be by judicial procedure in the cases when it is to be allowed on the application of landlord or tenant under special circumstances, has been made more clear by the addition of a few words to the end of section 2, to the effect that the provisions of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act shall apply in this connection, and an explanation has been added to show that the settlement of land revenue includes the settlement of rents in Government estates. I ought to mention that in Select Committee a little point was raised which led to some little discussion. It was suggested that as power had been given to revise rents on the application of landlords and tenants under special circumstances, such as the occurrence of cyclones, diluvion, or other convulsions of nature, we ought to take power at the same time to provide for the revision of the land revenue which would follow necessarily on the revision of rents. We discussed the matter and came to the conclusion that, as this little Bill only deals with the settlement of rents, and not with the settlement of land revenue, and as it is perfectly certain that the Revenue Settlement Officers will take cognizance of such revision of rents as are effected under such circumstances, it would be out of place in this Bill to introduce any provision in regard to the revision of revenue settlements entailed by the revision of rents in these particular circumstances. I promised the Select Committee that I would mention the matter in order that it might be placed on record, and I have fulfilled my pledge accordingly."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND also moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the above Bill be taken into consideration by the Council, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Hon'ble Mr. BUCKLAND, in moving that the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, be passed, said:—"I think the Council will hardly desire any recapitulation of the main objects of the Bill—certainly not at any length, and I do not propose to detain the Council more than a minute. The principal object of the Bill has been met by section 1, to which I have not adverted this morning, because no change has been made in it by the Select Committee. The Council will remember that the necessity for legislation arose in consequence of the opinion given by our legal advisers that under the existing law the settlement of rents could not be undertaken previously to the expiration of a land revenue settlement. The few words which have been introduced by this Bill into the Bengal Tenancy Act have been considered sufficient by our legal advisers to meet the requirements of the law, so that now the Government will be able to undertake the settlement of rents at any time—two, three, or more years if necessary before the expiry of the land revenue settlement. But by a later section the new rents will not come into force until the new land revenue settlement takes place. The other provisions of the Bill are merely ancillary to this main object. The last section is an indemnifying section, as it were, to validate what had been previously done on a possibly erroneous understanding of the law. I now beg to move that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT OF COUNCIL.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"There will be no further business to lay before the Council in the present autumn session, but I conceive that we shall have some important business to discuss when we meet again in the winter time."

The Council adjourned sine die.

1 Bengal in June 1894—concluded.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JUNE 1894.

At the end of May the pressure distribution over Bengal had been a little abnormal, and pressure had become slightly low in the Bay, but in the early part of June this abnormal distribution passed away, and the seat of lowest pressure was transferred to the north-western stations of the province, and ordinary hot weather conditions set in. Owing to the pressure changes of the first five days of June, pressure became decidedly low at the western stations, and on the 5th a very distinct low pressure area existed over the west of Bihar, while elsewhere pressure was nearly normal. With the occurrence of this feeble depression the local storms with rain which had been previously confined to the eastern half of the province extended in a westerly direction, and from the 5th numerous rain-showers were reported in all divisions except parts of Bihar. The depression in the west of Bihar, however, quickly filled up, but left pressure in a rather disturbed state, and hence these rain-showers continued numerous up till the 9th, though comparatively few were reported on the 10th instant.

During this period certain changes were taking place over the sea area, and feeble monsoon winds, due to the Arabian Sea current, made their appearance on the Malabar coast on the 4th and 5th of June, and then slowly advanced northward along the Bombay coast, and also penetrated partly into the interior. This advance on the whole appears to have been decidedly weaker than usual. In the extreme south of the Bay the first rather strong advance of monsoon winds due to the Bay current occurred on the 1st of June, on which date winds became strong, and light to moderate rain fell at the Ceylon stations. From this date this branch of the monsoon current continued to blow with moderate strength only at the Ceylon stations and at the stations on the South Coromandel Coast, and again on the whole the strength of these winds appears to have been rather smaller than usual. From about the 7th to the 9th of the June this current appeared to be creeping up the east and centre of the Bay, and had probably reached Burma. On about the 9th instant it was approaching the north of the Bay. It had not apparently passed over the south-eastern portions of Bengal to any appreciable extent up to the 9th instant, and the rainfall occurring in the central and western parts of Bengal was practically confined to local showers, though these were decidedly numerous, and the general and heavy rain accompanying the first burst of the monsoon had not occurred.

On the 10th instant the changes were comparatively small. A slight low pressure area existed to the west of Orissa, and this gave rather disturbed weather to Orissa and the surrounding districts on the 10th, so that on the 11th, in addition to the fairly general rain which was falling in the east and north-east of the province, there was also rather general and in some cases decidedly heavy rain in the western and south-western districts. Pressure on the 11th was still abnormal, as it was low in Orissa and probably over the north of the Bay, but from the 12th certain pressure changes brought about the commencement of a small storm, which advanced over Bengal and caused the setting in of the monsoon rains.

On the 12th instant pressure fell rapidly over the whole province, the fall usually equalling an eighth of an inch, and a distinct low-pressure area commenced to develop in South-East Bengal and over the neighbouring parts of the Bay. At the same time the monsoon current in the Bay began to strengthen, and squally weather was reported in the north-east of the Bay. During the next 24 hours this depression concentrated and intensified very rapidly, and became a small cyclonic storm with a centre in the north-east angle of the Bay, not far from Chittagong. Pressure on the 13th had fallen at Chittagong by no less than 0.218", and the reading was only 29.353", or nearly a quarter of an inch below the normal. With the formation of the small storm weather became very squally over the north of the Bay, and rather strong winds set in from Akyab northwards, and unsettled rainy weather also immediately commenced over practically the whole province. The small storm did not, however, remain stationary after its formation, but during the evening of the 13th it began to move in a north-westerly direction, filling up partially in its advance. On the morning of the 14th it was very clearly defined between Jessore and Faridpur, and nearer the latter station than the former; but pressure on this day was only 0.15" below the normal at Jessore and 0.212" below it at Faridpur, so the small storm had filled up to a certain extent. In its advance inland it brought up with it a heavy wave of monsoon winds, and hence on the 14th rain was reported from practically all the stations in the province. On the 15th the small storm had moved away from the centre of the province, and a low-pressure area with an irregular cyclonic circulation of winds was indicated in the south of Chota Nagpur close to Chaibassa. This was clearly the same storm that had been near Faridpur on the 14th, and hence its line of advance must have been distinctly to the west of south, or almost west-south-westerly from the 14th to the 15th. This is a most unusual direction, and there are only a few cases on record where storms in the rains in India have moved in a decidedly southerly direction. In its movement across Bengal the storm gave moderate to heavy general rain. On the 16th the small storm had again moved away in a westerly direction, and had ceased to affect the province, and in its rear pressure was rising very rapidly over the whole of Bengal. A moderate monsoon flowed in over the province after the storm, and again general rain was reported on the 16th; hence this storm initiated the monsoon rains in both Bengal and Bihar, and they may be said to have set in over the whole province on the 13th and 14th instants. A noticeable feature was the extremely rapid extension of the monsoon rains over the whole province after they had commenced in the southern districts, and hence, while the rains were only a day or two earlier than usual in setting in over South-West Bengal and Central Bengal, they were at least a week earlier than usual in setting in over Chota Nagpur and Bihar.

The inrush of monsoon winds, however, began to fall off from the 17th, when pressure rose briskly at all except a few of the north-eastern stations, and became rather largely above the normal, the excess usually ranging from 0.09" to 0.05", and hence the pressure distribution was rather unfavourable for the continued free advance of the current. The rainfall reported on the 17th was decidedly local in character, and where falls occurred they were usually rather light. Pressure began to fall moderately on the 18th, but it was still in excess over the western half of the province, and the monsoon current continued light, and only local rainfall was reported in all districts except parts of North Bengal, where it was general and rather heavy. Pressure again fell slowly on the 19th, and the distribution became a little abnormal, an excess of 0.02" being registered in the west of Bihar and Chota Nagpur, while in East Bengal and Assam defects were registered amounting to 0.07" at Chittagong and 0.09" at Silchar. Hence the differences of pressure over the province were much smaller than usual, and the western stations reported little or no rain, though fairly general rain was being received at the eastern stations. On the 20th pressure had again fallen over the whole province, the fall being largest in Orissa and over the north of the Bay, and smallest in Assam and Central Bengal, and pressure became below the normal by amounts ranging up to 0.13" on the Orissa and South Bengal coasts. A distinct cyclonic circulation of winds also set up at the stations round the north of the Bay, and hence it was clear that a barometric depression had formed over this area. On the 20th, as usually happens in such cases, rainfall was again not very general. On the 21st pressure had fallen slowly in Orissa, South Bengal, Chota Nagpur and the west of Bihar, while it had risen elsewhere, the increase being very rapid in Burma, and winds were still cyclonic in direction in the north of the Bay. On this day the feeble barometric depression had developed very slightly only, and it was also advancing towards the north-west angle of the Bay, the centre being probably to the east of False Point. With the advance of the depression conditions became rather more favourable for rainfall, and on the 21st rainfall was almost general, but at the majority of stations it was not heavy. On the 22nd the depression had again advanced slowly in a west-north-westerly direction, and the centre was between Chaibassa and Balasore, but it was still very feeble, and the cyclonic circulation of winds accompanying it was only light to moderate in force. On the 23rd the depression had again moved in a west-north-westerly direction, and was probably to the west of Chota Nagpur, and pressure had continued to fall at the western stations, while a very rapid increase of pressure was taking place over the remainder of the province. The depression had hence practically ceased to affect the province on this day, but it as usual brought up a moderate wave of monsoon winds, which continued to flow over the province in its rear, and hence from the 22nd, general and rather heavy rainfall was again reported in all districts. The small storm continued its north-westerly advance till its centre was not far from Allahabad, where it remained stationary for several days, certainly up to the 27th, and afterwards again moved away in a westerly direction. As usual in such cases there was a strong inrush of monsoon winds towards the depression, and the monsoon flowed steadily over Bengal up till the 27th. Hence for the whole of this period weather in Bengal was of ordinary monsoon character with heavily clouded skies and with frequent and rather heavy rain.

On the 28th of June, however, a slight change took place in the conditions. Pressure distribution became rather abnormal, very considerable defects being registered over the Bay and the south-eastern districts of Bengal, while excess pressure was recorded in Bihar and parts of West Bengal. Winds also fell off rapidly in force at the head of the Bay, and became irregular in direction at the southern stations of Bengal, pointing to a partial cessation or diminution in force of the monsoon current. On the 29th of June a very feeble barometric depression had formed in the north-west angle of the Bay, and winds showed a very distinct tendency to circulate cyclonically round it, though the circulation did not extend over a very large area. The rainfall bearing current by the indraught towards this feeble depression was partially prevented from reaching Bengal, and on the 29th a good many stations reported no rain. It also appeared that the feeble depression was moving in a west-north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 30th its centre was close to Balasore, and a little to the east of it. The depression had not, however, intensified to any extent, and it was a very feeble disturbance, though it was accompanied with a very distinct cyclonic circulation of winds, but at the land stations winds were decidedly feeble in force. The rainfall reported on the morning of the 30th was again rather local in Bihar and North Bengal, but with the advance of the depression towards and partially over the land, conditions on the 30th had again become favourable for general and rather heavy rain in Bengal. Practically, therefore, for almost the whole of the second half of the month, the monsoon conditions in Bengal were fairly strongly developed, and hence general and decidedly heavy rainfall was received for the greater part of the period and also in all districts.

Pressure.—The pressure distribution in the early part of June was a little irregular, and while defective pressure was usually recorded in the west of the province, slight excess pressures were recorded in the south-eastern districts. With the changes which occurred during the formation of the small storm whose advance brought up the monsoon rains to Bengal, the conditions became almost reversed, and thus in the week ending the 16th of June, Chittagong showed a defect of 0·03," while the northern stations were usually in excess, and in such cases as Dhubri and Purnea the excess also equalled about 0·03". Again, in the week ending the 23rd of June, the distribution of pressure was considerably modified by the passage of the depression through the south-western districts of the province, which showed defects ranging up to 0·06" and 0·07", while over the greater part of the province the pressure was almost normal. In the last week of the month the variations of the pressure from the normal were small, but slight defects of 0·02" to 0·04" were usually registered.

For the whole month therefore the mean pressure was in slight defect only, the extreme variations being defects of about 0·03" at the stations in Chota Nagpur on the one hand, and in parts of South-East Bengal on the other, while at the central and northern stations pressure was below the normal, usually only by a few thousandths of an inch, and at many stations the variation was smaller than a hundredth of an inch. In Assam the defect has averaged 0·013" only.

Temperature.—At the beginning of the month the mean temperature was decidedly below the normal in the east of the province, though considerable excess temperatures were registered at the central, northern and western stations. In the week ending the 16th instant, temperature was generally in slight to moderate defect, the mean variation being a deficiency of 1·5°.

In the third week, that is after the commencement of the rains, excess temperatures were registered in North and East Bengal, where the rainfall was less than usual, while moderate defects were registered elsewhere; and in the fourth week of the month, owing to the heavy rainfall, the mean average temperature was nearly a degree below the normal.

For the whole month the variations of the mean temperature from the normal have been small, and slight excess temperatures have been registered at the north-eastern stations and slight defects elsewhere. The variations are, however, particularly small, and at the great majority of stations they are less than a degree, and in a few cases only they equal a degree and a half.

This variation has to a great extent been spread over both day and night temperatures, for both maximum and minimum temperatures have been in excess at the north-eastern stations in the province, while defects have been registered elsewhere. Again, in no case does the variation of either day or night temperatures at any station in the province equal as much as two degrees, and they are generally less than a degree; but on the whole the variations of the minimum temperatures from the normal are slightly smaller than the variations of the maximum temperatures.

Rainfall.—The actual rainfall during June has varied from between 20 and 30 inches in and near the hills in North Bengal, and also over considerable parts of South-East Bengal to falls of between 3 and 5 inches in parts of the Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga districts, but the greater part of the province has received between 10 and 15 inches. Compared with the normal fall for June, the actual falls have been decidedly below the normal over the eastern half of the province, and also in the greater part of the northern districts. In the majority of cases where defects are recorded they are small, usually up to 5 inches, but over a considerable area in North Bengal the defect varies from 5 to 10 inches, while at Buxa in the Darjeeling district the defect is no less than 6·16 inches. On the other hand the whole of Western Bengal, Chota Nagpur, Orissa, and the south of Bihar has received a rainfall above the normal, the excess amounts in some parts of Chota Nagpur ranging from 5 to 8 inches. Speaking generally of the rainfall of Bengal, it has varied from an average amount of about 16 inches in East Bengal and 14 inches in North Bengal, in both of which districts it has been in rather large defect, to about 10 inches in South-West Bengal and 9 inches in Bihar, in which district excess falls on the average have been registered.

The following table gives a condensed view of the rainfall of the various divisions of Bengal in June, and in each of the previous months of the present year, as compared with the normal values for the same period. The figures given represent the actual falls expressed as a percentage of the normal falls, and it will be seen that the rainfall has been below the normal for four out of six months of the year, and that for the six months the percentage varies from 82 and 83 per cent. in South-West and North Bengal to 107 in Chota Nagpur:—

METEOROLOGICAL DIVISIONS.	January.	February.	March.	April.	May.	June.	Actual rainfall of first six months of 1894 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period.
South-West Bengal	0	55	42	97	58	104	82
North Bengal	0	61	16	177	83	77	83
East Bengal	0	87	164	79	70	95	88
Bihar	3	163	24	98	29	121	92
Orissa	30	19	27	128	20	137	92
Chota Nagpur	3	110	4	144	31	149	107

Taking the various meteorological divisions to have an equal value in the calculation, the actual rainfall of June 1894 has equalled 114 per cent. of the normal. It will be seen also that the principal excess falls occurred in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, while the principal defect has been in North Bengal.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of June for all the districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each represents :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Alipore Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS
TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
TIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATUR-
DAY, THE 14TH OF JULY 1894.

At the close of the previous week weather was of ordinary monsoon character over Bengal, and fairly heavy rain was falling. On the 8th, or the first day of the present week, pressure was rising at the northern stations and falling over the southern half of the province, the fall increasing in amount towards the south-eastern districts, and being largest over the Bay. At the same time wind directions at a few of the south-eastern stations began to show indraught towards the sea area. It was hence evident that a barometric depression was forming in the east of the Bay. Over Bengal rain had fallen rather abundantly from the 7th to the 8th, the rainfall being particularly heavy in the west of the province. On the 9th the depression over the Bay was developing slowly, and pressure had fallen in all districts, but owing to the indraught towards the depression, the monsoon winds were being drawn away from Bengal, and on the 9th the rainfall reported was light and local. On the 10th a further slow development of the depression in the Bay took place, and the small storm was probably nearly in the centre of the Bay and to the south-west of Akyab. Winds showed a strong indraught towards the small storm, and therefore again little rain was reported in Bengal on this day. It is probable also that on the 10th the small storm was beginning to move in a westerly direction, for on the morning of the 11th the centre had become much nearer to the South Orissa Coast, and was probably to the south-east of False Point. Hence on the 11th pressure was falling slowly to moderately in Orissa and in the south-western districts, while it had risen briskly over the remainder of the province. The centre of the small storm crossed the Orissa coast a little to the south of False Point shortly before 2 A.M. of the 12th, and at 8 A.M. of that day was some little distance to the south of Sambalpur. The storm was therefore moving rapidly in a westerly or west-north-westerly direction. It was not, however, a storm of much intensity, nor was the pressure at its centre very low, but it was accompanied by a most perfect cyclonic circulation of winds which particularly to the south of the storm, were decidedly strong. The storm having thus passed, inland, conditions became rather more favourable for rainfall in Bengal, and on the morning of the 12th the majority of stations reported rain. The storm, however, continued to advance in an almost westerly direction at an extremely rapid rate, the average speed being about 25 miles an hour for the 24 hours from 8 A.M. of the 12th to 8 A.M. of the 13th, and on the latter date it was in Central India. By the indraught towards the retreating storm, the monsoon current was to a great extent deflected from Bengal, and hence much less rain was received than is usually the case after the passage of a storm through Orissa. On the 13th, also, in the rear of the storm, pressure had risen very rapidly over the whole of the west of the province, the increase equalling nearly a quarter of an inch in Orissa. On the other hand pressure had begun to fall moderately to rapidly in Burma, and there was a slight tendency for winds to set up a circulation along the Burma coast, and conditions were therefore again favourable for the commencement of another barometric depression over the east of the Bay. On the 14th, or the last day of the week, pressure continued to fall rapidly at the eastern stations and in the east of the Bay, while a smaller fall was reported over the remainder of the province, though pressure was still in considerable excess generally. Winds at the eastern stations, however, showed very distinct indraught towards the Bay, indicating the continued existence and probable slight intensification of the depression over that area. With the formation of this second small storm, and by the indraught towards it, again the monsoon current blowing over Bengal began to fall off in force, and hence for the last two days of the week conditions were not very favourable for rainfall. It will be seen therefore for a considerable part of the week the monsoon current has been more or less deflected from Bengal, and hence the rainfall for the period has been decidedly smaller than usual.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been unusually high, and has been in excess by about a tenth of an inch. Indeed at several of the stations in Bihar, etc., the excess has averaged 0.11". Owing to the passage of the small storm through Orissa, the excess over this area has been comparatively small, and at Cuttack it has only equalled 0.03". In Assam the average pressure has been 0.074" above the normal.

Temperature.—The general mean temperature of Bengal for the week has been below the normal by half a degree, but the defect has been mainly confined to South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur. Indeed in North and East Bengal slight excess temperatures have been registered. In Assam the average mean temperature has been nearly normal.

Rainfall.—The general falls in Orissa and Chota Nagpur have equalled about three inches, and those in Bihar, East Bengal and South-West Bengal about two inches. The smallest falls have occurred in North Bengal, where they have averaged less than an inch and a half. The falls in Orissa and Chota Nagpur have been slightly in excess and in Bihar slightly in defect. On the other hand the defect has been large in South-West Bengal and very large in East and North Bengal. Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 77 per cent., North Bengal 49 per cent., East Bengal 66 per cent., Bihar 90 per cent., Orissa 137 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 102 per cent.

Taking each Division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled only 87 per cent. of the normal.

In Assam the rainfall has also been very small during the week. Silchar has received 0·78 inch, Sibsagar 0·70 inch and Dhubri 0·54 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 14th of July 1894:—

NOTICE to Mariners (No. 274 of 1894), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished:—

The following information, relating to Myrmidon shoal, is the result of a recent examination by Commander A. Mostyn Field, R.N., H.M. Surveying Vessel Egeria:—

The blasting and dredging operations of the Perim Coal Company appear to have removed the central part of the shoal.

On the north-west portion of the shoal there is now a least depth of 25 feet at low water, and on the south-east portion a least depth of 24 feet at low water, bottom sand.

From the north-west extreme of the shoal, taking 5 fathoms as the limit, Pirie point light-house bears south, distant $2\frac{2}{10}$ cables; and Chevalier point, E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (N. 88° E.); and from the south-east extreme Pirie point light-house bears S. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. (S. 16° W.), distant $1\frac{6}{10}$ cables; and Coal stacks pier extremity, W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (N. 73° W.)

Approximate position, south-east extreme shoal, lat. $12^{\circ} 33' 25''$ N, long. $43^{\circ} 24' 50''$ E.

In the khariif season water-rates shall be imposed by the Divisional Canal Officer under section 79, only when the irrigation is effected by cutting a village channel or committing a criminal offence, and only after the sanction of the Collector has been obtained to make a detailed measurement of the land irrigated without authority.

(NOTE.—Land irrigated in the khariif season with water taken from a leased area shall not be assessed under this rule)

The Collector's sanction is not in itself authority for the imposition of water-rates: it merely authorizes proceedings being instituted. The rates to be charged in the khariif season will be subject to the same maximum in the hot weather and rabi seasons. Persons using water without a permit shall, unless exempted by section 74 of the Act, be charged water-rates according to the season in which water is used, at the rates specified in this rule.

1. In the third paragraph of section 39 of the said Code, between the words "of any High Court established by Royal Charter" and the words "shall be required," the words "or of the Chief Court of the Punjab" shall be inserted.

2. For the first and second paragraphs of section 180 of the said Code the following shall be substituted, namely:

"The other party shall then state his case and produce his evidence (if any), and may then address the Court generally on the whole case.

"The party beginning may then reply generally on the whole case."

3. After the first paragraph of section 260 of the said Code the following shall be added, namely:

"Provided that no decree for restitution of conjugal rights shall be enforced by imprisonment of the defendant, unless the Court shall, for sufficient reasons to be stated in writing on the face of the order, think fit so to direct."

4. For section 546 of the said Code the following shall be substituted, namely:

"548. When a memorandum of appeal is admitted, the appellant shall present as many copies thereof on plain paper as there are respondents. [See s. 58.]

"The chief ministerial or other proper officer of the Appellate Court shall sign such memorandum of appeal and copies, if on examination he finds them to be correct, and shall endorse thereon the date of presentation, and shall thereupon register the appeal in a book to be kept for the purpose.

"Such book shall be called the Register of Appeals."

5. At the end of section 553 of the said Code the following shall be added, namely:

"Every notice under this section served on any respondent or his pleader shall be accompanied by one of the copies of the memorandum of appeal mentioned in section 548. [See s. 65.]

6. Sections 17 and 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878, are hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill is mainly designed to meet certain inconveniences which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India from time to time as arising in practice under certain sections of the Code of Civil Procedure.

2. The repeal of sections 17 and 18 of the Punjab Laws Act has been recommended by the Chief Court and the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab on the ground that the sections are no longer necessary in view of section 214 of the Code of Civil Procedure and on the further ground that hardship may in particular cases be caused by them.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th July, 1894:

NO. 9 OF 1894.

A Bill to amend the Cantonments Act, 1889.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Cantonments Act, 1889; It is hereby enacted as follows:

1. (1) This Act may be called the Cantonments Act Amendment Act, 1894.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. To section 26 of the Cantonments Act, 1889, the following shall be added, namely Addition to section 26 of Act XIII of 1889.

"Provided that no such rule shall contain any regulation enjoining or permitting any compulsory or periodical examination of any woman by medical officers or others for the purpose of ascertaining whether she is or is not suffering from any venereal disease, or is or is not fit for prostitution, or any regulation for the licensing or registration of prostitutes, or sanctioning the practice of prostitution, in any cantonment."

Insertion of new section after section 26 of Act XIII of 1889.

3. After the last-mentioned section the following section shall be inserted:

"26A. Any public servant who shall subject any woman to compulsory examination for any of the purposes mentioned in the proviso to section 26 shall be liable, on conviction thereof in a summary way before the Cantonment Magistrate, to fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or to such imprisonment in default of payment thereof as is provided by the Indian Penal Code, section 67."

XLV of 1860.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

ON the 26th July, 1888, the Government of India, in compliance with a despatch from the Secretary of State dated the 14th June, 1888, issued certain orders with a view of putting an end to the registration and compulsory examination of prostitutes in cantonments. It has been discovered that these orders have not in all cases proved effectual for the purpose, and the Secretary of State in Council has directed that the Bill to which this Statement is annexed should be introduced in the Legislative Council for the purpose of prohibiting under penalties such examination for the future. The Bill is submitted accordingly in compliance with the directions of Her Majesty's Government.

The 10th July, 1894.

TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
TIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATUR-DAY, THE 21st OF JULY 1894.

At the close of the previous week a small storm was forming in the north of the Bay, and by the indraught towards it the monsoon current which had been flowing over Bengal began to fall off in force, and hence rainfall was becoming much lighter than it had been. On the 15th, or the first day of the week under review, pressure had fallen over the whole province, the fall being largest in the north of the Bay and at the eastern stations. Winds also showed a very decided cyclonic circulation, which extended over the whole of the north of the Bay and the greater part of Bengal. The centre of this circulation was probably to the west of the centre of the Bay in the latitude of Puri. On the 16th pressure was falling rapidly in Orissa, particularly at False Point, which reported a fall exceeding a tenth of an inch, while it was falling slowly in the west of the province and rising at the eastern stations. The small storm had apparently advanced in a north-north-westerly direction, and was at 8 A.M. of the 16th some little distance to the south-east of False Point, while it was also probably intensifying to a considerable extent. On the 17th the storm had advanced again in a north-north-westerly direction, and was within the north-west angle of the Bay, the centre being a short distance only to the south-east of Balasore. The storm had increased rapidly in intensity, and there had been a fall of pressure at Balasore of more than a fifth of an inch, while a decidedly rapid fall had occurred over the whole of the south-western districts of Bengal. A very strong cyclonic circulation of winds accompanied the storm, and it extended over the whole of Bengal and the northern half of the Bay. The centre of the small cyclonic storm then crossed the coast to the south of Balasore soon after noon of the 17th, and the exceedingly low pressure of 29.169 inches was recorded at that station at 1 P.M. This pressure is about a third of an inch below the normal of the day. Probably also, as the centre did not actually touch Balasore, at the actual centre of the storm a pressure of only about 29 inches existed. The pressure recorded at Balasore even is an unusually low pressure for a cyclonic storm of the rains. The storm gave very strong winds and stormy and very squally weather over a large part of the Bay, and particularly in the north-west angle, and from Balasore it is reported that during the early part of the storm the flag-staff with the storm signals hoisted on it was blown down, and hence the signals could no longer be hoisted there.

Either immediately before crossing the coast, or as the storm advanced inland it began to change its line of advance, and instead of moving in a north-north-westerly direction it advanced almost due west. Hence at 8 A.M. on the 18th the centre of the storm was a little to the south-east of Sambalpur in the Central Provinces, having thus advanced about 200 miles since the previous day in almost a due westerly direction. On the 19th the centre of the storm was to the south-east of Seoni, or about 240 miles to the west of its position on the 18th, while on the 20th the centre was near Pachmarhi, and on this day it had advanced in a west by north direction through about 120 miles. On the 21st, or the last day of the week under review, the centre of the storm was a little to the north-west of Indore, and had thus advanced about 200 miles in a west-north-westerly direction. Throughout its passage across the Peninsula it gave rather strong winds, and as it approached the western side of the Peninsula it created a strong indraught of monsoon winds from the Arabian Sea towards it. It hence has caused very heavy weather in the western districts of India, and probably also in the Arabian Sea.

The storm therefore has been a very important one, as it gave heavy weather from about the 14th or 15th up till certainly the 21st, in both the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea and over the head of the Peninsula as well. During the passage of the storm inland through the north of Orissa, in addition to the stormy weather with very strong winds and the very low pressures which were recorded, some very heavy falls of rain were reported. Thus from 8 A.M. of the 16th to the 18th Chandbali received 12.3 inches of rain, and Bhadrak also in the Balasore district 7.7 inches. A heavy wave of monsoon winds advanced in the rear of the storm, but owing to the westerly direction taken by it, the monsoon current was mainly deflected towards the Central Provinces, and therefore away from Bengal. Hence the monsoon current affecting Bengal during the week has again been rather feeble, except in the south-western districts and Orissa, which were more or less affected by the storm. The rainfall for the week has therefore been in very large defect in North and East Bengal and Bihar; the defect has been much smaller in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, while on the other hand the fall in Orissa has been nearly twice as large as usual.

Pressure.—The distribution of pressure during the week has been to a great extent governed by the storm, and while the mean pressure recorded in Orissa and at the neighbouring stations in Bengal shows a decided defect, over the remainder of the province decided excess pressures have been registered. Hence Cuttack and False Point show defects of between 0.05" and 0.06", while on the other hand excess pressures of 0.03" to 0.05" have been recorded in Bihar and North Bengal.

Temperature.—Owing to the rather scanty rainfall, the mean average temperature in North and East Bengal and Bihar has been nearly a degree higher than the normal, while on the other hand very slight defects have been registered over the remainder of Bengal. For the whole Province, however, the variation has been only an excess of about a fifth of a degree. In Assam the small excess of 0.3° has been recorded.

Rainfall.—An average fall of nearly five inches has been registered in Orissa or nearly two inches in excess of the normal. In South-West Bengal, East Bengal and Chota Nagpur the falls have averaged between one and two inches only, or falls much smaller than usual, while in North Bengal and Bihar the amounts recorded have only averaged between half an inch and an inch. These amounts are about two inches in defect of the normal in North and East Bengal, about an inch and a half in defect in Bihar, and nearly an inch less than the normal in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 66 per cent., North Bengal 24 per cent., East Bengal 46 per cent., Bihar 32 per cent., Orissa 163 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 63 per cent. Taking each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled only 66 per cent. of the normal fall.

In Assam the rainfall has also been generally light during the week; Cachar has received 4.77 inches, Sibsagar 1.18 inches, and Dhubri only 0.49 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 21st of July 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 140.

[First Publication.]

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—BORNEO NORTH COAST.

Dangerous rocks near Lankayan on the track hitherto recommended.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 305 of 1894) of the following dangers discovered, and alterations in the buoys and beacons on the north coast of Borneo:—

Two rocks having 6 to 7 feet water over them lie near Lankayan on the track hitherto recommended; these rocks are 2 cables apart, on a N. 13° E. and S. 13° W. bearing from each other.

From the south-western rock Lankayan bears No. 34° E., distant $2\frac{1}{10}$ miles. This rock is marked on the south-west side by a small black cask buoy. At 5 cables S. 35° W. from the buoy is a coral patch of 5 fathoms.

Approximate position of the south-west rock, lat. 6° 28' 35" N., long. 117° 53' 55" E.

(2) Shallow water between Langaan and Great Bakkungaan.

Also, that a large coral patch with 8 feet water over it lies in the channel between Langaan and Great Bakkungaan, the exact position of which has not yet been determined.

Approximate position of Langaan, lat. 6° 12½' N., long. 118° 9' 30" E.

(3) Alterations in buoys and beacons in Mallawalle channel.

1. A beacon with black spherical cage has been erected on the rock situated S. 35° E., distant $1\frac{1}{10}$ miles from Kukuban, with Tibakkan, bearing N. 66° E.

Approximate position, lat. 6° 54' 55" N., long. 117° 25' 10" E.

2. The beacon on Sandy island (previously notified as having disappeared; Supplement, 1893, to Eastern Archipelago, part I., 1890, page 8) has been replaced, and is now screwed into the rock.

Approximate position, lat. 6° 49' 20" N., long. 117° 37' 0" E.

3. The beacon formerly marking Leonan reef has disappeared and will not be replaced.

Approximate position, lat. 6° 44' 30" N., long. 117° 37' 35" E.

4. An iron perch surmounted by a black cage has been placed on the reef, at $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. 61° E. from the position of Leonan reef beacon (removed).

Approximate position, lat. 6° 45' 40" N., long. 117° 39' 40" E.

NOTE.—The red buoy marking this reef has been removed.

5. The black and red horizontally striped buoy, marking the $2\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms patch situated $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. from Billeau has been moved, and now marks a 3 fathoms patch, situated $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (N. 40° E.) from Billeau island.

Approximate position, lat. 6° 39' 30" N., long. 117° 48' 45" E.

RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE—MASSAWA CHANNEL, NORTHERN APPROACH.

Verification and position of Saunders' reef.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 306 of 1894), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished :—

Saunders' reef was originally reported as seen breaking, by Mr. Kemp Sauhders of the steam-ship Shat-el-Arab on 11th February 1893, and the report was published in Notice to Mariners, No. 150 of 1893. As the position and depth given made it a formidable danger to vessels approaching Massawa channel, one of H. M. Ships was directed to search the vicinity, but nothing was found.

A second search made by Commander A. W. Paget, H. M. S. Dolphin in May 1894, has, however, been more successful and the existence of the reef has been verified, the position being about $3\frac{3}{4}$ miles S.E. of that originally reported.

The following particulars are furnished by Commander Paget :—

Saunders' reef is of coral formation, about 400 yards in diameter; the least depth found upon it is 2 fathoms, with deep water close around.

Approximate position, lat. $17^{\circ} 11' 15''$ N., long. $39^{\circ} 24' 0''$ E.
